Arizona-based CBD products manufacturer Alpha Therapeutics is offering a wide range of highly rated and affordable THC-free CBD products for pain relief.

Alpha Therapeutics' offerings include CBD oils, topicals, sedatives, and attractive combos that bundle them together. Since the company's products have negligible concentrations of THC, they can be purchased directly through its online store without a prescription. Alpha Therapeutics' focus on offering THC-free products has prompted many of its customers to explore the health benefits of cannabinoids such as CBG and CBN for the first time.

The company's Extra Strength 3000 mg CBD oil ships in 4500 mg bottles with 30 servings per bottle and a 2:1 concentration of CBD and CBG per serving. Praised for its ability to provide relief from chronic pain and anxiety, the plant-based anti-inflammatory formulation helps calm pain and nerve receptors throughout the body.

Customers have reacted positively to Alpha Therapeutics' Extra Strength CBD oil as it has a perfect 5-star rating from 7 reviews. One customer talks about the impact of CBD oil on their sports performance by saying, "As a professional ultrarunner, I stand by Alpha products as the best out there. I routinely use CBD oil to help with my recovery and sleep, and the salve has been a great addition to ease sore muscles. Highly recommend this company and their product!"

Another reviewer talks about how the CBD oil helped them reduce pain in their extremities by saying, "I have used 30+ doses (1 ml each) of the Extra Strength Broad Spectrum CBD with CBG and I can say that it has reduced the amount of pain in my lower back and legs. It usually lasts around 5-6 hours before I need to take another dose if my pain level is high enough to demand it. I recommend anyone to try this blend of CBD and CBG that Alpha has formulated."

For customers looking for a topical CBD solution, Alpha Therapeutics offers the 2000 mg CBD Pain Stick. Designed to provide pain relief to isolated joints and muscles, the topical ointment absorbs quickly through the skin. For maximum efficacy, Alpha Therapeutics recommends rubbing the topical into the skin where the pain originates and in the surrounding areas into which the pain radiates.

A buyer praised the company's CBD pain stick in their review by saying, "Everything about this purchase was amazing. The product finally brings me some seriously needed relief from neck pain so I can sleep at night. The Customer Service surpasses ANY I have seen in a VERY long time! I am a forever customer and recommend it to anyone I know looking for natural pain relief! Thank you!"

Alpha Therapeutics' products are formulated by doctors and come with a Certificate of Analysis that vouch for the purity of their contents and the manufacturing process. The hemp from which the CBD is extracted for Alpha Therapeutics' products is all organically farmed with high amounts of the cannabinoid to maximize their natural and powerful antioxidant and anti-inflammatory properties. Moreover, Alpha's Broad-Spectrum products use raw herbs, unlike other products that are made using heated and filtered distillate.

The founder of Alpha Therapeutics, Geoff Dada explains what inspired him to start creating his own CBD products by saying, "As an ultra-runner, I wanted a way to help my body heal and reduce the pain that follows training for long-distance endeavors such as marathons. I also insisted on only using natural means to make it happen. I settled on CBD but found the offerings in the market to be severely lacking. Most of the brands I tested had very little CBD concentration than what they promised on the label. To solve this issue for myself, I developed my own CBD with medical-grade processes that yielded, frankly, amazing results. Alpha Therapeutics is my way of sharing my discoveries, and with it, my passion for CBD with others like me."
