Online marketing authority IMSource.org is proud to announced that they are promoting the program KMoneyMastery. The program has been designed to help people write eBooks and self publish them through the Amazon Kindle platform, thereby helping them build a passive income. The program is hailed for its simplicity and effectiveness.

Greg Jeffries, founder and owner of IMSource.org, says: "It's not often that we find a program that we wholeheartedly recommend. We like to get down to the nitty-gritty and point out flaws, thereby giving people the opportunity to make an informed decision. But when it comes to KMoneyMastery, we just love it. We recommend this program to anybody, as it offers multiple ways of earning passive income, none of which are complicated."

The program is, in the main, designed to help people write and publish their own eBook. In addition, it also shows people how to outsource their writing, how to automate the process, how to choose their covers, how to market their product and more. As such, it can be used by anybody, whether they have experience in writing books or marketing or not.

"I started using KMoneyMarketing at the recommendation of IMSource," says Paul J. "I was skeptical because I am a lot of things, but an internet master or writer, I am not. However, IMSource convinced me that this program could work for me, and they were right. Not only do I now have a number of books published on Kindle Amazon, I am also earning a second stream of passive income by promoting the system myself."

IMSource.org, as shown on <http://imsource.org/kmoneypr>, also recommends the program's affiliate opportunity. Through affiliate marketing, people can earn a level of commission on every person that signs up through their links. This is one of the easiest, most efficient and oldest ways of earning money online and it remains popular to this day. What sets KMoneyMastery apart, however, is that it enables people to earn money both by promoting the product and by actually using it themselves, which is a unique proposition.
