iFoam of O'Fallon, which is based in O'Fallon, MO, is now offering residential and commercial insulation services in O'Fallon and neighboring areas. The company provides spray foam insulation installation services and more. This kind of insulation can enhance energy efficiency by up to 30 percent as a result of its ability to prevent air infiltration. Not only will this mean savings in energy costs for the home or business, but it can also help prevent seasonal allergies, decrease mold, and improve indoor air quality. However, they want to stress that the efficacy of the foam insulation is primarily dependent on the installation, which means that it would be best to get the services of a professional for the spray foam insulation installation. Those who are interested in getting more information about the services can visit company website.

A spokesperson for iFoam of O'Fallon says, "Our team of experienced professionals are dedicated to providing top-quality spray foam installation services that will meet your needs and budget. We've been in the business for 10 years and have been fortunate to provide insulation services to a number of satisfied clients throughout the O'Fallon Missouri area. We've worked on several different types of properties including residential, commercial and industrial spaces. Our team is committed to providing you with the best spray foam insulation services near O'Fallon Missouri."

iFoam of O'Fallon provides a variety of services, such as residential retrofit, air sealing, blown in attic insulation, and insulation removal. Since insulation needs can be different, they are offering various kinds of spray foam insulation installation services, such as crawl space insulation, new construction, attic insulation, and more. They also understand that not everyone knows about spray foam insulation, which is why they always take the time to explain all of the available alternatives, so that clients can make an informed decision as to the product or service to use.

Spray foam is a kind of insulation that is sprayed to the area where the insulation is to be installed while it is in liquid form. Once it is exposed to the air, the fluid expands into foam, which allows it to provide a tight seal, which prevent air infiltration and heat transfer. iFoam of O'Fallon can also provide residential retrofit services for homeowners who want to enhance their insulation during a home remodel or renovation. They can enhance the insulation of the home by installing either blown in insulation or spray foam insulation. Blown in insulation is different from spray foam insulation in that it is made up of tiny pieces of material that are then blown into attics and walls. This insulation can be used to fill small gaps and spaces and prevent air infiltration and reduces sound transfer.

For those who have damaged or old insulation, iFoam of O'Fallon can also offer insulation removal and allow the installation of new insulation to enhance the level of comfort for the home. They can also offer air sealing services, which is an important step in enhancing the insulation of the home. This particular service can help in preventing air infiltration, decrease energy costs, and increase the overall energy savings and efficiency of the home.

iFoam of O'Fallon is locally owned and operated by Scott and Lisa Brooks, who were both born and raised in the St. Louis area and are therefore familiar with Eastern Missouri. They take pride in the unique culture and pride of the people in the community. Scott was a project manager and a multi-site executive leader in logistics and distribution. Lisa is an IT professional. Both are excited about the quality services and the value that iFoam can provide to the residential and commercial real estate markets in the area.
