The health issues that they can handle include: burns; abrasions; bites; cut or laceration, needing stitches; wound follow-up, wound recheck, dressing change, and removal of sutures; back discomfort; childhood illness such as pink eye, rashes, or eye symptoms; impetigo; cold symptoms such as fever, cough, or sore throat; fractured bone; diarrhea; ear pain or infection; fish hook removal; injury of the ankle, knee, foot, wrist, elbow, or hand; joint pain; sports physicals; muscle injury ? pull, strain, sprain; rash; sinus pain or infection; sunburn; x-rays; urinary tract infection; full lab services; vaginal discharge; and other minor health issues.

They want to emphasize that for certain health issues, they recommend calling 911 or a visit the emergency room or department. These include: severe bleeding that won't stop; serious difficulty breathing; change in mental status (such as unusual behavior, confusion, or difficulty arousing); chest pain; choking, coughing or vomiting blood; fainting or loss of consciousness; feelings of wanting to harm oneself or others; head or spine injury; severe or persistent vomiting or diarrhea; sudden injury due to motor vehicle injury; burns or smoke inhalation; near drowning; a deep or large wound; sudden dizziness, weakness or change in vision; swallowing a poisonous substance; abdominal pain; carbon monoxide exposure; sudden blindness or severe eye injury; sexual assault; pregnancy related concerns; partial or full paralysis; and vaginal bleeding (non-pregnancy).

A spokesperson for Amana Care Clinic explains, "What's the difference between the ER and Amana Care Clinic? The emergency room and Amana Care Clinic are healthcare facilities that treat medical emergencies. In general, Amana Care Clinic is for minor, non-life-threatening situations, like a bad earache or a sprained ankle. At Amana Care Clinic you usually have shorter wait times, and the services tend to be much more affordable.

The emergency room, or ER, is for crisis situations that call for immediate or advanced treatment, such as head injuries or severe allergic reactions."

Amana Care Clinic was established in Muscatine, Iowa, to offer an urgent care services for the communities in Muscatine. This is a clinic where patients can simply walk-in to get treated for minor health problems that don't require a visit to the emergency department or hospital. The medical staff at Amana Care Clinic have been ascertained to be among the best available for quickly diagnosing a patient's specific health problems and offer the proper treatment, using their advanced facilities, exam rooms, lab equipment, and X-ray equipment.
