September 07, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

David J. Gerszewski of Citadel Law Firm has been selected to the list of Super Lawyers' Rising Stars of 2023. The prestigious list published annually considers 12 parameters for selection; it is peer influenced and research driven. Citadel Law Firm provides comprehensive affordable estate planning services.

According to announcements released by Citadel Law Firm, its founder, David J. Gerszewski, has been selected to the Super Lawyers list of Rising Stars for 2023. The list features a select few lawyers in each state across practice areas. The publication states that the annual list features only the top 5% of lawyers in the United States. To feature on the Rising Stars list, David's performance as a Chandler estate planning lawyer was evaluated across 12 parameters. Research and peer opinions are the basis for selection in this list.

As a trusted and experienced estate planning lawyer in Chandler, David J. Gerszewski has helped individuals and families ensure their assets pass on to those they nominate.

The law firm treats clients like family. David's experience across diverse industries enables this law firm to provide coordinated, detailed, and optimized solutions for clients, including families and businesses. Its approach to each case allows the law firm to provide clients with financial security and future-proof the existence, use, and growth of assets.

According to sources, Citadel Law Firm knows how to protect clients' assets for future generations and minimize taxes. It is aware of the various laws that govern the taxation of assets in Arizona. Its estate planning tips are of particular value for clients with large estates who may otherwise have to pay substantial amounts as tax.

The law firm also develops detailed estate plans to protect estates and assets from creditors. This is important because creditors have been known to play spoilsports and legally claim shares that would otherwise go to nominated or chosen inheritors. A poorly drafted estate plan is no security against the legal might that creditors can bring to bear upon an estate.

The law firm draws up estate plans per the client's requirements; revocable living trusts and irrevocable trusts are among the two most popular estate planning strategies. The experienced asset preservation attorneys from this law firm recommend an irrevocable trust that cannot be changed once created, to protect estates from creditors. They draw up living trusts specific about how an estate should be handled, usually to avoid probate.

Citadel Law Firm also serves clients with special needs, such as those who wish to pass on estates to disabled inheritors without disqualifying them for government benefits or estates governed by trusts that skip a generation (also known as dynasty trusts).

The law firm recommends estate plans because of the many benefits these bring to families, least of all the peaceful transition of ownership that estate plans facilitate. With an estate plan in place, family owners need not squabble or fight over the perceived rightful ownership of assets. Citadel Law Firm knows how to transfer assets to a trust to reduce or eliminate tax liabilities without affecting the transfer of ownership.

Clients can initiate the estate planning process or seek help for probate proceedings with a free consultation. The law firm's services include last will and testament, financial power of attorney, and more. Its Chandler office is at Queen Creek between McQueen and Cooper, near the Chandler airport.

David J. Gerszewski of Citadel Law Firm said, "I made Arizona my home in 2014 and now operate the Citadel Law Firm based in Chandler serving east valley clients in estate planning, wills and trusts, and tax law. Our law practice designs personalized estate, business, retirement, and tax planning strategies for clients, which are designed to coordinate with clients' existing investments, pensions, life insurance, and annuities. Through a legally distinct financial planning entity that is not a law firm, our clients may also receive guidance on investment management and life insurance retirement planning strategies."
