October 02, 2023 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Easier Communications, a company with offices in Denver, CO, has announced they have transferred to a new domain, which is easiercomms.com, from the old easiercommunications.com. Despite this change, the content of their website remains the same VoIP phone services, using products from Alcatel-Lucent Enterprise and NEC. They ensure the best possible customer service by providing clients with a single point of contact who gets to know the business and keeps in contact with the client right from the start. Those who want to know more about the company can check out their Facebook page at facebook.com/EasierCommunications.

Omar Abdelfattah, President of Easier Communications, says, "There are a lot of VoIP providers out there, but not all of them provide the kind of white-glove support that Easier Communications does. From system design, installation, and configuration, and to on-site technical support, our team of experienced professionals will have your VoIP system up and running quickly. We provide the highest level of customer service, ensuring a smooth transition from traditional office phones to emerging, industry-leading technology."

With the understanding that each business has unique and specific communication needs, they will always work closely with the client to provide them with a system that is custom-fitted to their unique requirements. Whether it is cloud-based, on-site, or a hybrid solution, they will design and configure the system to offer maximum cost savings and efficiency.

Easier Communications takes pride in being part of the top one percent of Alcatel-Lucent Enterprise providers in the country and the number one provider in Colorado. This ensures that their clients will get a VoIP system that is built from the best possible technology. In addition, their certified and expert technicians will expertly install the system, ensuring that there is minimal disruption in business operations and that the business phone system is configured and secure to satisfy the client's business requirements.

The VoIP system they provide will have several advanced voice features to help make sure the phone calls always secure, clear, and connected. Features include: crystal clear voice quality, automated attendant services, call forwarding, voicemail, email, and more. The voicemail service allows users to receive, store, and manage voicemails securely and easily. It is also possible to forward voicemails directly to one's email address. A personal user message can also be recorded to automatically greet callers and provide them with instructions on how to leave a message. A smart call routing function is also provided to allow incoming calls to be routed automatically to the proper person or department.

An automated attendant system also permits the user to manage incoming calls fast and efficiently, greeting callers with a customized message and allowing to connect with the proper individual or department. The system may also be provided with an interactive voice response (IVR) with HTTP and SQL connectors, offering various call routing and management features. An automated speech recognition and text-to-speech feature may also be provided.

They can also offer video conferencing services to allow online meetings involving several people. It provides an easy-to-use user interface with clear visuals, allowing participants to easily see what is happening in real time.

Their contact center solutions offer a comprehensive set of tools to help streamline operations, boost efficiency, and enhance customer satisfaction. Another feature available is automatic call distribution, which enables the user to route incoming calls to the most appropriate individual or department.
