A dental clinic in Whitchurch, Hampshire, United Kingdom, is now offering the latest improved version of Invisalign braces. These braces, which have taken the world by storm, are a type of aligners or braces that are clear and therefore nearly invisible. Designed to discreetly straighten teeth, they are proving to be very popular.

Dr. Manish Chitnis from Dental Concepts says: "Invisalign is a revolutionary method of straightening teeth that is gaining in popularity because no one will notice that you are wearing braces. Thus, we're so happy to announce that we are now certified to offer the newer version through our dental clinic. We encourage anyone, regardless of their age, to contact us for further information to find out what is involved in the procedure and how it can benefit them."

The braces have been designed not to affect a patient's daily routine. They are custom made, removable, comfortable and completely clear. They must be replaced on a fortnightly basis until the projected results have been achieved. Considered the 'Rolls Royce of discreet', Invisalign are nearly invisible braces.

As a qualified Invisalign dentist, Dr. Chitnis has a special computer software application with a feature that clearly shows patients how their teeth are able to change position over time. This means that they can also clearly see what the final results will be. This Invisalign software application is available to all patients, whether they sign up for the treatment or not. It is a type of test drive, which allows patients to find out exactly whether or not the treatment is right for them.

Invisalign braces offer a number of clear benefits. They deliver straight and clean teeth and this has the potential to be life changing for people. "Patients have noticed improved confidence and social presences," adds Dr. Chitnis. "And while I think that is important, as a dentist, the fact that patients can keep their teeth hygienically clean with more ease is even more important."

Dental Concepts is committed to helping people improve their overall quality of life. It is vital that they are able to smile at important moments, such as for their wedding photographs or job interviews. People with straight, white teeth feel more comfortable and empowered to take control over their own lives.
