April 30, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Young Driver is recognised as the UK's largest provider of driving lessons for those aged under 17 and continues to grow at an impressive speed throughout the UK – opening eight new venues over recent months. This development underscores the organisation's commitment to early driving education on private properties, targeting minors and teenagers.

The initiative is structured to help teens get valuable practical driving experience well before they reach the legal age for driving. The programme is meticulously crafted to help youngsters build up essential driving competencies within a secure setting, guided by fully qualified and government-approved instructors.

To help reduce the shockingly high accident rate for newly qualified drivers, which currently shows one in five will crash within the first six months after passing their test, the lessons from Young Driver are designed to establish a robust foundation for lifelong responsible driving practices. The organisation's research shows that the rate of accidents for past pupils in those dangerous first few months on the road drops by 84 per cent.

In catering to the diverse requirements of young learners, the variety of offerings is extensive. Young people can have 30 or 60-minute lessons, and although these are typically done one-on-one with an instructor, shared sessions are also available. Additionally, Young Driver hosts advanced skills events for drivers provides lessons in a variety of vehicles, including classic cars, and administers simulated practical driving examinations, thereby equipping learners for their official driving tests.

Educational institutions, youth groups and charities can enjoy tailor-made services, rendering Young Driver's initiative both accessible and appealing to a wide audience. Those with additional needs are welcomed, with the scheme providing a safe way for people of all abilities to experience being behind the wheel.

"We are excited to expand our services further across the UK and reach more young learners. By starting early, we empower them with the knowledge and skills for safer driving. It's rewarding to see our students grow into responsible drivers, and we are proud to play a part in this crucial learning journey," Young Driver concluded.

Furthermore, for the latest updates, offers, and driving advice, enthusiasts can engage with Young Driver on Facebook or Instagram. With a 14-year history, 70 UK venues, and over 1.4 million lessons to its name, Young Driver remains a top selection for early driving instruction across the UK.
