

John Cornish Launches New Website for FHA Loans and New Homes in Quad Cities

August 22, 2024

DAVENPORT, IA - August 22, 2024 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

John Cornish, a mortgage lender based in the Quad Cities, has officially launched a new website, QCHomeLoan.com. The site went live on September 1, 2021, and provides detailed information on FHA loans, VA home loans, and other specialized mortgage options. This new platform aims to support first-time home buyers and veterans in Iowa, offering guides, answers to common questions, and blog posts about different mortgage choices.

To reach more first-time home buyers and veterans, John Cornish and his team have expanded their digital presence. The website simplifies complex mortgage topics and offers advice to help clients understand the mortgage process and make informed decisions. This aligns with John Cornish's mission to better support clients and engage with them online.

Ryan Roman, Tayler Fick, and Lindsay Frederick work with John Cornish, bringing a range of skills to their mortgage services. They make sure the process goes smoothly from application to closing, providing support and communication the whole way through. Their services cover mortgage approval, refinancing, pre-approval guidance, and advice on making strong property offers. For a glimpse into their operations and success stories, those interested can read more on their official website and YouTube channel.

John Cornish said, "With the launch of QCHomeLoan.com, we aim to make the mortgage process as transparent and straightforward as possible for our clients. Our focus has always been to provide quick and convenient solutions, and this website is an extension of that commitment." For a more detailed overview of the services offered, and to learn how John has helped over 2,300 families with their mortgage needs, visit the company's Facebook page, which includes numerous client testimonials.

Besides the new website, John Cornish puts a lot of focus on social media. The company is active on Instagram, offering extra insights and updates on mortgage solutions. They use platforms like Instagram to connect with more people, especially potential home buyers and those looking to refinance their current mortgage.

"We understand the challenges that first-time home buyers and veterans face when applying for loans. Our new website and social media channels are tools to address these concerns and make the process easier for everyone involved," added John Cornish. For the latest updates and community interaction, their Facebook and YouTube platforms are continually updated with valuable content.

John Cornish and his wife Meghan also support their community through the Key Cares Foundation, which has raised over $160,000 for local nonprofits in the past four years. This foundation matches John Cornish's commitment to positively impacting the Quad Cities community.

The new website also links to other helpful resources and platforms. Visitors can easily access the official Facebook page of John Cornish - Mortgage Lender, which has over 5.6K followers. This page includes client testimonials, updates, and information about their mortgage services. More detailed discussions and advice can be found on John Cornish's YouTube channel, which features a variety of videos on home financing and mortgage advice.

John Cornish's goal is clear: to be a leading mortgage specialist for first-time home buyers and veterans in Iowa. By driving traffic to the new website and using social media effectively, they aim to boost online visibility and secure a top spot in the 3-pack map rankings for their location in the Quad Cities, IA.

For more detailed information on FHA loans and VA home loans, visit the new website at QCHomeLoan.com. More updates and client stories are regularly shared on their official Facebook page and Instagram account.

This effort is part of an ongoing campaign to attract new clients, increase traffic, and maintain a strong online presence. John Cornish is dedicated to offering specialized mortgage solutions and actively supporting the community, striving to be a trusted name in the mortgage industry.
