Wyomissing, PA?Board-certified plastic surgeon Dr. Brian K. Reedy has published a new educational blog, ?Dr. Reedy Answers Your Top Questions About Motiva Implants,? spotlighting the newly US-approved Motiva® SmoothSilk Round and SmoothSilk Ergonomix® breast implants. The post answers some of the most asked questions Reading breast augmentation patients have about these next-generation devices?which have quickly become infamous for their ultra-natural look and feel?and why Motiva implants are fast becoming the practice?s implant of choice.

?Our goal has always been to give each patient the safest technology and the most natural-looking results,? explained Dr. Reedy, an award-winning breast augmentation surgeon. ?Motiva?s advanced implant technology is a significant step towards fewer complications and even more pleasing results, and I?m thrilled to share the details in a way that helps patients feel confident about their options.?

In the blog, Dr. Reedy answers the questions he hears every day?from whether Motiva implants move more like natural tissue during a workout to how its patented SmoothSilk surface may help reduce capsular contracture rates. His straightforward Q&A also clarifies candidacy for low-BMI patients, explains submuscular versus subfascial placement, and covers three projection profiles?Mini, Demi, and Full?that allow finer shaping without increasing volume. ?Patients who love an athletic lifestyle will notice less ?implant awareness,? while those seeking a subtler, teardrop drape get that, too,? he noted. ?These implants adapt to their bodies instead of the other way around.?

Motiva?s line of implants offers several features that set it apart from traditional smooth or textured implants. A 4-micron nano-smooth shell is engineered to discourage bacterial adhesion

?The nano-smooth outer shell is designed to be biocompatible with natural breast tissue,? Dr. Reedy said. ?Combined with Motiva?s BluSeal integrity check and a robust warranty, it?s a strong safety net.?

The dynamic gel inside Motiva implants also uniquely redistributes under gravity: the implant looks naturally round when lying down but gently slopes when standing. ?That shape-shifting effect is subtle, but it?s something women notice in their day-to-day lives?especially during yoga classes, taking a jog through their neighborhood, or even reaching for a top shelf,? he commented. ?It?s these small, everyday moments where great design really matters.?

While praising Motiva?s advantages in his blog, Dr. Reedy emphasizes that no single implant fits every patient. ?I?ve used Allergan Natrelle implants for years with superb results and will continue to offer them,? he said. ?My job is to listen first?learn your aesthetic goals, evaluate your anatomy, and then recommend the implant that best fulfills your vision.?

Dr. Reedy?s enthusiasm for innovation is rooted in more than two decades of surgical excellence. Certified by the American Board of Plastic Surgery, he has been repeatedly honored by Newsweek as one of ?America?s Best Plastic Surgeons? (2021-2024) and was named a Castle Connolly Top Doctor in 2024?recognitions that underscore his commitment to optimal results and patient satisfaction. Most recently, Dr. Reedy?s plastic surgery practice, Berks Plastic Surgery, was voted the Best Cosmetic Enhancement in Berks County by the Berks County People?s Choice Awards for the 18th time.

Dr. Reedy invites anyone considering their first augmentation or contemplating a revision to schedule an in-office assessment. ?We?ll review ultrasound imaging, discuss lifestyle factors, and walk through touch-and-feel demos so you can make a confident choice.?
