September 11, 2025 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Endless Energy, a ductless heat pump contractor based in Marlborough, MA, has been designated as one of 50 top-quality installers within the larger Mass Save Heat Pump Leader Network. The company has worked with Mass Save in both the Mass Save Heat Pump Program and the Mass Save Installation and Home Energy Program. This designation is not an endorsement, but a testament to Endless Energy's commitment and dedication to offering sustainable and cost-effective energy options.

"In 2025, Mass Save launched the elite Heat Pump Leader Network to recognize contractors committed to higher standards and exceptional service. Endless Energy, a proud Mass Save partner since 2015, is honored to be one of just 50 installers statewide to earn this designation and among the few meeting all 10 enhanced quality measures to deliver the best experience for Massachusetts homeowners and businesses," explains Amanda Perkins, Chief Operating Officer of Endless Energy.

In order to receive this designation, Endless Energy went through a strict regimen. Mass Save examined the company's installation work, quality, attention to detail, and other factors before designating them a top 50 installer.

With more people becoming aware of the importance of sustainable energy, the company has seen a jump in demand for heat pump systems. Endless Energy is meeting this need by joining the Mass Save Heat Pump Installer Network, which boosts its ability to provide top-notch installations and customer service in the area. Their heating services include boiler installation and maintenance, furnace repair, installation and maintenance, and diverse options for commercial enterprises.

"Every detail matters ? from accurate load calculations to proper sealing and charging ? because the performance of your system depends on how well it's installed," says Matt Kidd, CEO of Endless Energy. "This recognition reflects our promise to provide Massachusetts homeowners with the highest quality and most reliable comfort solutions. Being named one of the top 50 companies in Massachusetts is a huge honor and a reflection of our team's commitment to our customers. Our goal is to help homeowners save energy and stay comfortable, and this recognition shows the care and quality we put into every project. We want to instill confidence in homeowners that when they choose Endless Energy, they're choosing a reputable company."

Endless Energy is focusing on innovative solutions that help the environment while saving money. They also offer personalized home energy assessments and a variety of financing options, ensuring energy-efficient solutions are accessible to all. This diverse approach not only expands their services but also supports their reputation as a leader in smart energy solutions. In recognition of these accomplishments, Michelle LaFrance?aka The Duchess of Ductless?has recognized CEO Matt Kidd as The Ductless Guy in Marlborough Massachusetts on her YouTube channel of the same name.

Market research shows that people are increasingly turning to energy-efficient systems, with heat pumps becoming more popular because they can both heat and cool spaces. As part of the Mass Save Heat Pump Leader Network, Endless Energy works to educate consumers about the benefits of these systems. Their comprehensive range of cooling services, including air conditioning repair and installation, supports this educational focus.

By providing comprehensive solutions aligned with Mass Save initiatives, Endless Energy is ready to help New England residents optimize energy use all year round. Their integrated services make sure consumers can access renewable energy resources and the latest technologies in the field. Endless Energy plans to continue to innovate and expand their services with a focus on practical applications of their technology.
