Dot&Dot is an Amazon retail store that has an all-encompassing range of products in their inventory. With their new travel size bottles now available for purchase, they are receiving great praise from customers.

The FDA approved set of four travel size bottles is one of the most recent products of renowned Amazon store Dot&Dot. Not only is it their latest product, but it has also become their most prominent product in a very short time. The store states that they were sure this product was going to be a hit since the day they put it up for purchase. They also believe the success of this product to be due to its avant-garde quality and its array of practical uses.

The set comes in four colors: white, blue, green and purple. Not only does this give the bottles a visual appeal, it also makes it easy to color code the substances inside. Strong and durable to withstand travelling, these bottles have been made seamless with BPA free, food-grade silicone which makes them suitable for food or beverages.

Till now, the product has been bought by many clients and most of them have rated it five stars on the store's Amazon listing. One happy seller stated in a review "These are by far the nicest travel bottles I've ever bought and I plan to buy more for hand soap and hand sanitizer," she further added "The most important thing to know about these bottles is that they are leak proof. I've been carrying one around my purse with salad dressing and it hasn't leaked thanks to the very secure lid closure."

Another customer satisfied with the transaction added "I actually took these on a trip a few weeks ago and really likes having them. They were so easy to use and fill, didn't leak in my bag (like most bottles), and I was able to take along all the products I needed. Dot & Dot also includes a plastic TSA approved size bag for the bottles. You can fit additional items in the bag besides the bottles as well. I really liked these and would definitely buy another set."
