Luann Savage has announced that she was recently interviewed for Business Innovators Magazine. Savage is Sr. Manager with Send Out Cards, and in the interview, she shared her insights regarding the multi-level marketing (MLM) business model and provided basic information regarding MLM. Send Out Cards is a network marketing online greeting card company. More about Luann and Send Out Cards can be seen on the company's official website at <https://www.sendoutcards.com/luann>.

After the interview, Savage stated, "It was a pleasure to speak with a representative of the magazine, and to offer what I could that may help other network marketers to reach the level of success that they desire."

When asked about how to make money with an MLM model, Savage told the interviewer that marketers need a business system in place that they will follow. They need to find an MLM that is a good match, and they need to be prepared to put some work into their effort.

"You just don't get something for nothing, particularly in marketing," Savage says. "You have to be willing to work for what you will be getting. I can promise you that if you are willing to put forth the effort, there is no limit to what you can achieve in this industry."

Savage states in the interview that finding a fitting MLM is akin to finding a spouse and that there are basically two ways to make money. One is selling products or services, and another is recruiting others to do the same thing, which is to sell products and services. She states that while most internet users today have heard of MLM, most are not sure what the term means or what it entails. She says that because of the early days of MLM, many view it as a bad investment and something that should be avoided. She declares that those views are far from the truth - "There are good ideas out there, you just have to be dedicated to finding them."
