

Bow Tie Solutions Expands Emergency Electrical Service for Residential and Commercial Clients

August 19, 2026

PEA RIDGE, AR - August 19, 2026 -

Bow Tie Solutions, a family-owned electrical contractor based in Pea Ridge, Arkansas, has formally expanded its emergency electrical service to address urgent electrical hazards for both residential and commercial customers across Benton County, Madison County, and Washington County. The company, which is licensed and insured and has completed more than 500 jobs, now maintains 24/7 emergency response availability for situations that require immediate attention.

The expanded Bowtie Solutions Emergency Electrical Service covers a range of urgent scenarios, including sudden total power loss or partial outages, burning smells from outlets or panels, sparking or buzzing fixtures, breakers that trip immediately when reset, scorch marks or discoloration on electrical components, and exposed or damaged wiring. These conditions can pose serious safety risks, and the company reports that timely intervention often prevents further damage or injury.

The response process begins when a customer calls to describe the problem. The team then advises on immediate safety measures, such as leaving the area and calling 911 when a fire is suspected, or shutting off the main breaker when it is safe to do so. Technicians are dispatched quickly to diagnose and resolve the issue, walking the customer through each step of the process.

"Electrical emergencies rarely happen at a convenient time, which is why round-the-clock availability matters so much," said Bill Towler, spokesperson for Bow Tie Solutions. "When someone calls with a burning smell or a breaker that keeps tripping, the first priority is guiding them to safety, and the second is getting a technician on site to identify and fix the root cause."

The company has built its approach around fair, transparent pricing and a family-business commitment to honesty and quality. Towler noted that clear communication is central to how the team operates during high-stress situations.

"As a family-owned business, honesty and quality are not slogans but the way work gets done every day," Towler said. "Customers deserve to understand what is happening with their electrical system and what the resolution will cost before any work begins."

The emergency offering complements the broader range of services provided by Bowtie Solutions, which include electrical installation for renewable energy systems as well as industrial, commercial, and residential settings, generator maintenance and installation, automated gate installation, metal fabrication, portable welding, and general welding. Generator services in particular support homes and businesses that depend on backup power during outages.

Bow Tie Solutions is a locally owned electrical contracting company with more than 40 years of combined experience serving northwest Arkansas. Its team of licensed electricians focuses on safety, reliability, and quality workmanship across residential and commercial projects. The company also provides free project estimates for its full range of services and emphasizes doing the job correctly the first time.
