May 18, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

Her Pow has unveiled a Money Back Guarantee covering its Organic Pretend Food Choices play set. If customers aren't happy with their purchase, a refund will be given, no questions asked. Children and toddlers can learn from the 125-piece set of miniature, custom-labelled plastic toys. Available now for $29.99, the play foods are designed for imaginative play and to encourage healthy eating.

The set includes six slices of pizza, apples, bananas, broccoli, and cauliflower. Other items include juice cartons and condiments, while eggs, oranges, cucumbers, strawberries, potatoes, and a whole miniature chicken are included. French bread is also in the set, but children will also find French fries, hot dogs, hamburgers, cherry pie, and ice cream. Children can pretend shop, prepare foods, and cook. The complete set is intended for boys and girls ages three and up.

Food labels feature fun facts, so kids can learn about organic and healthy foods. All four food groups are included as well. Each piece can be used with other kitchen play sets. Attempting to eat the pieces is not recommended, according to the company, as this can result in broken teeth. Toddlers can spend as much time as they want making pretend meals.

The product is a perfect gift for small children. It also used in preschools and doctors' offices. Shipped in a 1.9 pound package to the customer's door, Organic Pretend Food Choices is available on Amazon for $29.99 per set for a limited time. Free shipping is available on orders over $49.

Customers can now take advantage of purchasing via a secure shopping cart, 1-Click ordering, user reviews, and a Wish List. Customers are guaranteed a refund if not completely satisfied.
