

The Phoenix Jewelry & Art Marks Its Two-Year Anniversary

August 12, 2026

CRUZ BAY, VI - August 12, 2026 -

The Phoenix Jewelry & Art is observing its two-year anniversary in August 2026. The store opened its doors in Cruz Bay two years prior and is marking the occasion throughout the month.

According to the store's recent announcement, the anniversary coincides with a promotion offering 50 percent off select pieces for the entire month of August 2026. The discounted items include sterling silver studs and drop earrings, toe rings and anklets, micro and small gemstone beaded bracelets and necklaces, Larimar pendants, and two Ola Kala bag styles: the Evelyn in Chestnut and the Eryn in Turquoise.

The Phoenix Jewelry & Art was established by a group of friends who drew on experience from previously retired jewelry stores on the island. The team states that it holds over a century of combined experience in St. John jewelry. This background informs the store's approach to curation.

Stephanie Remington, owner of The Phoenix Jewelry & Art, said, "The two-year mark reflects the relationships built since the store opened. This space was created to bring together designers from near and far with local island artists under a shared table model."

Collections currently featured include work from the St. John Bracelet Company, The Hook Company, Denny Wong, JKennedy Design, Patrick Murphy, the Ocean collection and Ola Kala. These selections range from nature-inspired designs to contemporary pieces.

Remington said the store's founding values center on supporting makers and providing a place where visitors and residents can find pieces tied to their experiences on the island. She added that the anniversary provides an opportunity to acknowledge the community that has supported the business over the past two years.

The store operates with a focus on handcrafted items. Designers and local artists each contribute distinct styles, resulting in a range of options for those seeking wearable or decorative pieces. The promotion on select items runs parallel to the broader anniversary observance and is limited to the categories listed for the month of August.

Team members assist visitors in exploring the available collections. The store's location near the ferry dock in Cruz Bay positions it as an accessible stop for those arriving on the island. The anniversary period highlights both the original vision of the founders and the ongoing presence of the makers whose work is displayed.

The shared table arrangement continues to define the space. Multiple contributors present their craft alongside one another, creating a setting that reflects a variety of approaches to island-inspired design. Pieces available during August include both everyday items and more distinctive selections.

Remington said the first two years have been shaped by the people who have visited and by the artists who have contributed. The anniversary recognition centers on that history rather than solely on the limited-time pricing of certain pieces.

The inventory maintains a consistent emphasis on craftsmanship. Items such as Larimar pendants and gemstone beaded jewelry appear among the selections offered at the reduced rate, while other collections remain available at regular pricing.

By noting the two-year milestone, the store records a clear point in its development. The August promotion forms one element of the observance, with specific categories of merchandise included for the full month. The overall focus remains the anniversary itself and the collaborative model established at the outset.

The Phoenix Jewelry & Art operates as a jewelry and art store that curates handcrafted pieces inspired by the sea, community, and island life. The space brings together designers and local artists to form a collaborative environment where multiple makers contribute to one shared narrative.
