

AMARA Subway Publishes Campus Catering Guide

August 26, 2026

August 26, 2026 -

AMARA Subway's new campus catering guide for events near Kennesaw State University gives student organizations, Greek chapters, athletic teams, academic departments, residence life programs, graduate groups, and university staff practical information for planning group meals. Released July 7, 2026, the resource covers box lunches, sandwich platters, order requirements, advance notice, pickup, delivery, and recurring campus events.

The article is designed for gatherings ranging from small organization meetings to programs with more than 100 attendees. It brings the main ordering details into one place so campus planners can compare meal formats, estimate quantities, collect dietary requests, and coordinate food with class schedules, event start times, and venue access.

"Campus groups often have to coordinate food alongside schedules, attendance, dietary needs, and event logistics," said AMARA Subway Marketing Director Alex Laldin. "This resource puts the main ordering details in one place so organizers can understand the available choices and plan ahead."

The guide describes two primary formats: individually packaged box lunches and shared sandwich platters. Each box lunch contains a sandwich, chips, and a cookie. Vegetarian selections can be requested from the catering menu. Separate packaging can help organizers manage portions, label special requests, and distribute meals to attendees who arrive or take breaks at different times.

AMARA Subway requires a minimum order of 10 box lunches and at least 24 hours' notice. For orders of more than 30 boxes, the company recommends allowing 48 hours. Individual event orders do not require a catering contract, which gives student and university groups the ability to arrange food for a single meeting, program, or event.

Party platters provide a shared-service alternative. Each platter includes five footlong sandwiches divided into 15 portions and may serve approximately five to nine people, depending on appetite and the other food available. The published information does not list a minimum platter count, making trays an option for both smaller gatherings and larger buffet-style functions.

Pickup is available from the AMARA Subway restaurant at 3079 Hidden Forest Court, Suite 110, in Marietta. The location is adjacent to the Kennesaw State University campus and near Fifth Third Stadium and nearby student housing. Delivery is available for qualifying catering orders of $250 or more.

For events serving 100 or more people, the guide recommends direct coordination. AMARA Subway operates six locations across Cobb County, allowing nearby restaurants to support larger orders when needed. Organizers can contact the Hidden Forest Court location to discuss meal counts, dietary requests, preparation time, pickup, and delivery logistics for the scheduled program.

Before ordering, campus groups should confirm the expected attendance, number of boxes or platters, vegetarian or other dietary requests, and requested pickup or delivery time. Collecting these details early can reduce last-minute changes and help the restaurant prepare the order around the event schedule.

The resource also addresses recurring meals. Student organizations, departments, chapters, athletic programs, and other campus groups that meet weekly or monthly can request a standing account. A recurring setup allows a familiar order to be confirmed or adjusted for each meeting instead of being rebuilt from the beginning.

Potential campus uses include organization meetings, recruitment activities, guest speaker programs, faculty meetings, seminars, orientation events, residence life programs, fundraisers, and team meals. By publishing a campus-specific catering reference, AMARA Subway aims to make the early planning stage clearer for groups looking for box lunches or sandwich platters near Kennesaw State University.

AMARA Subway operates six Subway locations across west and north Cobb County and provides catering for office lunches, campus activities, events, and other group gatherings. Available formats include individual box lunches and shared sandwich platters, with local restaurants able to coordinate qualifying delivery and larger orders when advance arrangements are made.
