HF Coors, a business in Tucson, AZ, which is known as the best kept secret in dinnerware manufacturers in the country, is proud to have been featured on the Edible Baja Arizona website. The article highlights the history, strength, design, and superior quality of the HF Coors products. The company has been making high quality, colorful, and fun dinnerware sets for restaurants and homeowners since 1925. Dirck Schou, President of HF Coors says: "We are so proud to have been featured in Edible Baja Arizona. It highlights one of our proudest moments, which was when a huge fire tore through a pine forest, destroying hundreds of structures and yet one of our dinner sets survived falling three stories in a burning home. This demonstrates the commitment to quality we have in all our pieces. Naturally, we won't tell you how we do it, but we will tell you that we will continue to implement our company secrets in any product we make."

At the colorful fun factory, people can visit the company and see how each piece is made. While they have generic pieces, most of which are in a bright but uniform color, it is also possible for large users to request dinnerware sets to be made to order. Every part of the dinnerware sets, bowls, and other products are made in the USA, because the company supports the local economy as part of its overall philosophy.

The HF Coors products have been very positively received by their many clients. "So proud to have HF Coors in Tucson," says Claudio O-T on the company's Facebook page. "The customer service from all the staff

(Beverly, Contessa to name a few) have always taken the time to welcome me to the Potters Sale on 1st Saturday of the month. The sales have been amazing and the treasure hunting the best. I have been attending these sales for over a year now and keep going back to see what is new."

People are encouraged to learn more about the company and the products they make by visiting their website and social media pages. Galleries of pictures have been included there for further information, showcasing their amazing work, but people can also visit the factory in Tucson, AZ.
