September 03, 2026 -

Truly Investor Capital has announced a new Post-Closing Specialist career opportunity now featured through the company's recruiting presence on Loxo. The position supports post-purchase, secondary, and operations functions tied to the company's Chandler, Arizona operations and reflects the continued growth of the business-purpose lender's national hiring efforts.

The Post-Closing Specialist will help maintain loan quality after funding and support the delivery and transfer of loans to investors. Core responsibilities include closed loan file review, trailing document management, collateral review, investor delivery support, loan transfer coordination, servicing transfers, post-purchase condition resolution, and investor suspense tracking. The role works closely with funding, capital markets, and servicing teams throughout the loan lifecycle.

The opportunity is designed for experienced mortgage professionals with knowledge of Residential Transition Loans and business-purpose lending products such as bridge, fix-and-flip, and construction financing. Truly

Investor Capital is seeking candidates with at least four years of mortgage industry experience and two or more years in post-closing, shipping, servicing, or secondary operations. Experience with investor delivery, loan sales, or securitization processes is considered an added benefit for applicants.

By featuring the position through Loxo Truly Investor Capital continues to broaden its digital recruiting footprint, providing experienced mortgage and private lending professionals with an additional avenue to discover opportunities within the organization. The move aligns with the company's ongoing operational scaling as loan volume increases across multiple states.

"The Post-Closing Specialist role reflects how much the operations side of lending matters once a loan has funded," said a representative of Truly Investor Capital. "Featuring the position on Loxo allows the company to connect with professionals who understand the details of post-purchase work and Residential Transition Loans."

The representative added that consistency across recruiting and operations remains a priority for the organization. "A strong Truly Investor Capital Brand is built on reliable execution at every stage, and that includes how the company presents opportunities to experienced professionals in the private lending space," the representative said.

The company places emphasis on branding as a core business asset, viewing it as more than a logo or company name. That philosophy extends to visual design, messaging, customer service, and reputation, with the goal of delivering a unified experience wherever customers and candidates encounter the business.

Professionals searching for Truly Investor Capital jobs, post-closing roles, private lending careers, or mortgage operations positions can review the complete role and application information through Loxo.
