September 29, 2026 -

Truly Investor Capital has highlighted a Post-Closing Specialist career opportunity based in Chandler, Arizona, currently featured on the recruiting platform Vaia. The position provides experienced mortgage operations professionals with a path to join the company's growing private lending organization at a time when the business continues to scale its operations.

The Post-Closing Specialist supports post-purchase operations, including collateral review, trailing document management, investor delivery support, loan transfers, servicing transfers, and post-purchase condition resolution. The role plays an important part in maintaining loan quality after funding and ensuring that loans are successfully delivered and transferred to investors.

Truly Investor Capital is seeking candidates with four or more years of mortgage industry experience and at least two years of experience in post-closing, shipping, servicing, or secondary operations. Direct experience with Residential Transition Loans, including bridge, fix-and-flip, construction, or similar business-purpose lending products, is required for consideration.

As a business-purpose lender, Truly Investor Capital focuses on financing solutions that include DSCR loans, bridge loans, fix-and-flip financing, and investor rental loans. Its operations team supports the company after loan funding by helping maintain loan quality and facilitating investor delivery and transfers. The Vaia Truly Investor Capital listing details the responsibilities, qualifications, and workplace environment associated with the role.

"The Post-Closing Specialist position reflects the type of talent needed as the operations side of the business continues to expand," said a spokesperson for Truly Investor Cap. "Featuring the opportunity on Vaia makes the role more visible to mortgage and private lending professionals who understand the life of a loan after funding."

The position offers a competitive base salary and bonus structure, medical, dental, and vision benefits, a 401(k) with company match, paid time off, paid holidays, and opportunities for career growth as the organization continues to build out its platform. The role is described as detail-driven and execution-focused, with strong cross-functional collaboration across funding, capital markets, and servicing teams.

"Consistency and accuracy after funding are essential to delivering clean loans to investors," the spokesperson for Truly Investor Cap added. "This role gives an experienced professional the chance to contribute directly to that standard while advancing a career in private lending."

By featuring the opportunity on Vaia, Truly Investor Capital continues to strengthen its recruiting presence and make career opportunities more accessible to professionals searching for employment in and around Chandler, Arizona. The move reflects the broader growth of the Truly Investor Capital Brand as the company expands its team to support increasing loan volume and investor activity.
