Brio Merchandising Ltd., a business in Kelowna, BC, Canada, has revealed that they have launched new packaging and variations for their handmade organic wool dryer balls. In so doing, they are offering their customers more choices, including gifting options.

Charmeyn Martell, co-founder of Brio Merchandising Ltd., says: "Its all about our customers as our supply and demand is very high and we love to cater to what our customers need."

Throughout July and August 2016, the company aims to release a range of other products as well. This is part of their continued commitment to quality. The new products will be made available at prices that their customers will love. The company is known for offering their handmade wool dryer balls at a very competitive price. The dryer balls are currently available on Amazon, as will any future products.

Brio Merchandising Ltd. is committed to creating high quality, affordable products that support the environment and local economies in impoverished communities. Their priority is to offer their customers exceptional quality and value. They have received over 700 positive reviews in this country, along with hundreds of positive reviews received in the United Kingdom and Canada.

The organic wool dryer balls offer customers a range of benefits such as dramatically reduce drying time saving money and time, eliminating static and wrinkles naturally and softening laundry without leaving a thin coating of harmful synthetic chemicals on ones laundry. More so, however, the organic wool dryer balls offer health benefits to customers and their loved ones. Commercial fabric softeners and dryer sheets are filled with harmful carcinogens and perfumes that coat and breakdown clothing, towels and sheets that eventually end up on the skin which is then absorbed into the body. These chemicals compromise the immune system, aggravate allergies, promote disease and can be especially harsh on sensitive skin.

Additionally, the organic dryer balls are ethically sourced and Brio supports free trade to Nepalese women and their families who hand craft the products. In so doing, the Brio is contributing to the task of rebuilding and sustaining their community. With the help of their valuable customers, Brio Merchandising Ltd. feels that they truly make a difference to the world.

"The meaning of Brio means 'life force' and our inspiration comes from humanity living their active, enthusiastic and spirited life to the fullest," adds Charmeyn Martell. "We have sourced the corners of the planet providing our esteemed customers with only exceptional quality, natural and affordable products supporting the health and well being of life force found in each and every one of us."
