

SDZ Law LLC Announces Return of Chicago Lawyer Sarah Zigulich to Active Family-Law Practice

August 27, 2026

CHICAGO, IL - August 27, 2026 -

SDZ Law, LLC has announced that attorney Sarah D. Zigulich is returning to active legal practice, resuming her work with clients throughout the Chicago area in matters of divorce, child custody, child support, mediation, and related family-law issues.

Zigulich stepped away from full-time practice to focus on raising her children. Now that her children are in school, she is again available to represent clients through SDZ Law, LLC, a firm concentrated in matrimonial and family law. Her return marks the resumption of a practice built on compassionate, detailed, and family-focused legal guidance for individuals navigating sensitive personal transitions.

Admitted to practice in Illinois since 2011, Zigulich brings more than a decade of experience in family law. Her background includes work on premarital agreements, parenting disputes, child support litigation, and the defense of clients facing false allegations in family-law proceedings. She is a contributor to the Illinois State Bar Association, having authored articles for the ISBA on topics relevant to the practice of law.

"Stepping back to focus on my family gave me a renewed perspective on the work I do," said Sarah Zigulich, who has been recognized on the Super Lawyers rating service, which identifies attorneys who have attained peer recognition and professional achievement across more than seventy practice areas. "Family-law matters touch people at some of the most difficult moments of their lives. Returning to practice now, with my children in school, allows me to bring that same understanding and attention to the families I represent."

The firm approaches matrimonial and family-law matters with an emphasis on humanizing a process that can often feel overwhelming. Its services include negotiating premarital agreements that set out the financial and property rights of each party, resolving parenting disputes involving custody and decision-making responsibilities, litigating matters related to establishing and modifying child support, and defending individuals against false accusations that can affect both their rights and reputations.

"My goal has always been to guide clients through these matters with clarity and care," Zigulich added. "Every family is different, and the guidance provided has to reflect that reality. I am looking forward to once again helping Chicago-area clients reach resolutions that protect their interests and the interests of their children."

Zigulich has maintained a professional presence in legal directories throughout her career, including a profile with Justia Lawyers, where her focus on divorce and family law is documented. Her return to active practice reflects a continued commitment to serving clients in Cook County and the surrounding communities.
