

Dinardo Tree Care Expands Certified Arborist and Tree Trimming Services

September 22, 2026

Dallas, TX - September 22, 2026 -

Dinardo Tree Care has expanded its arborist and tree trimming services throughout the Greater Dallas area, extending professional tree care coverage to communities including Dallas, Highland Park, Preston Hollow, Lake Highlands, Lakewood, Coppell, and Highland Village. The expansion broadens access to a full range of services led by an ISA Certified Arborist and grounded in recognized industry standards.

The expanded offering covers tree trimming, tree pruning, deep root fertilization, air spading, tree healthcare and diagnosis, insect and disease control, water management, tree and stump removal, tree support systems, and storm damage recovery. Each service is delivered by professionals certified through the International Society of Arboriculture, with an emphasis on all-natural tree care, growth, and wellness for both commercial and residential properties.

Dinardo Tree Care performs work in accordance with the ANSI A300 Tree Care Standards, which are approved by the American National Standards Institute. These standards serve as the recognized authority within the United States civil court system, and adherence confirms that tree care work aligns with established industry benchmarks. The company holds ISA certification number TX-4666A.

"Trees in North Texas face demanding conditions, from summer heat to sudden storms, and each one requires an individual approach rather than a one-size-fits-all method," said Jared Dinardo, ISA Certified Arborist and founder of Dinardo Tree Care. "Expanding the service area allows more property owners to work with trained professionals who follow the ANSI A300 standards and prioritize long-term tree health."

Proper pruning remains a central element of the company's approach. Selective pruning is used to remove dead or diseased branches, improve structural integrity, and support healthy growth, while trimming addresses both appearance and safety. The company notes that timing and technique vary by species, and that assessments are conducted before any work begins.

"There is a meaningful difference between simply cutting branches and applying arboricultural science to a living tree," Dinardo said. "A Dinardo Tree Care arborist evaluates the whole tree, its environment, and its species before recommending any treatment, whether that involves fertilization, disease control, or structural support."

The expansion reflects growing demand for professional tree maintenance across the region, where mature trees contribute to property value, shade, and neighborhood character. Services such as deep root fertilization and air spading address soil compaction and nutrient access, while storm damage recovery helps stabilize and restore trees following severe weather. Diagnostic services allow issues such as insect infestation and disease to be identified before they spread.

Dinardo Tree Care serves both commercial and residential clients and develops customized tree care plans based on the condition of each property. The company continues to emphasize organic treatments, proven techniques, and certified training across its full range of services.
