October 09, 2026 -

J&E Roofing Solutions, a family-owned and owner-operated roofing contractor serving Southwest Missouri and Northwest Arkansas, has formally expanded its shingle roof replacement services for homeowners contending with aging, damaged, or storm-affected roofs. The move responds to steady regional demand for dependable roofing work and reflects the company's 18 years of experience in the industry.

As an Owens Corning Preferred Contractor, the company meets Owens Corning's standards for materials and workmanship and offers enhanced manufacturer warranty eligibility. That designation applies to J&E Roofing Solutions Shingle Roof Replacements, which rely on quality materials and current installation techniques to deliver durable results for residential properties across the service area.

The replacement process is designed to be straightforward for homeowners. Customers begin by submitting a quote request, after which the company schedules a roof inspection to assess the condition of the existing roof. Once the inspection is complete, the team carries out the replacement. The company also assists homeowners who are navigating insurance claims tied to roof damage, working directly with insurance providers throughout the process.

"Many homeowners in this region are dealing with roofs that have weathered years of sun, wind, and storms, and they want a clear path to getting the work done," said Elias, a representative of J&E Roofing Solutions. "The expanded focus on shingle roof replacement allows the team to meet that need with a simple process that starts with a quote request and moves through inspection and installation."

Storm activity and the natural aging of roofing materials are common reasons homeowners seek replacement services. A roof that has lost granules, developed leaks, or sustained wind damage can compromise the structural integrity of a home if left unaddressed. By concentrating on shingle replacement, the company aims to help property owners address these concerns before minor issues become major repairs.

"Insurance claims can be one of the most confusing parts of replacing a storm-damaged roof," Elias added. "Working directly with insurance providers on behalf of homeowners is a central part of how the company approaches each project, and it removes a significant amount of uncertainty from the experience."

In addition to shingle work, the company provides roof repair, gutter replacement and repair, metal roofing, low slope residential roofing, and commercial roofing. Competitive pricing and financing options are available to make roofing projects more accessible to a wider range of homeowners. The company has also indicated that growth in its service offerings supports local hiring and contributes to economic activity in the communities it serves.

J&E Roofing Solutions is a family-owned and operated roofing company based in Monett, Missouri, with more than 18 years of experience. As an Owens Corning Preferred Contractor, the company uses quality materials and adheres to strict standards for workmanship. Its services include shingle roof replacements, roof repair, gutter replacements and repair, metal roofing, low slope residential roofing, and commercial roofing, along with assistance handling insurance claims related to roof damage.
