

Lightning Orthodontics Expands Children's Services in Lutz

September 01, 2026

September 01, 2026 -

Lightning Orthodontics, led by Dr. Susan Jefferson, has announced an expansion of orthodontic services for children in Lutz, Florida. The update includes additional resources for younger patients, changes to diagnostic procedures, and expanded educational efforts intended to help families better understand early orthodontic care. The practice provides treatment for children who may benefit from evaluation as dental and facial development progresses.

The expansion reflects an increased focus on early orthodontic assessment and treatment planning. Families searching for a kids orthodontist in Lutz, FL may encounter recommendations for orthodontic evaluations during childhood, when developing bite patterns, tooth alignment, jaw growth, and oral habits can be assessed before all permanent teeth have erupted.

"There has been significant demand for orthodontic treatment that takes the specific needs of children into account," said Dr. Susan Jefferson. "Early evaluations can give families a clearer understanding of how a child's teeth and bite are developing and whether treatment may be appropriate now or at a later stage."

As part of the service update, Lightning Orthodontics is placing additional emphasis on preventative orthodontic evaluations and early intervention when clinically appropriate. These evaluations may consider issues involving tooth eruption, crowding, spacing, bite development, and oral habits that can affect the position of teeth or jaws.

The practice is also expanding educational discussions with parents about the timing of orthodontic treatment. Rather than assuming every child requires immediate intervention, evaluations can help determine whether treatment is recommended, whether continued monitoring is appropriate, or whether orthodontic care can be postponed until additional dental development occurs.

Diagnostic technology is another component of the service expansion. Lightning Orthodontics has incorporated digital scanning and imaging into portions of its evaluation and treatment-planning process.

Digital scans can provide detailed representations of a patient's teeth and may be used as an alternative to traditional dental impressions in appropriate cases.

The updated approach is intended to give orthodontic providers additional information when assessing alignment and planning treatment. Imaging and digital records can also be used to document changes as children grow and as permanent teeth continue to emerge.

Lightning Orthodontics is also introducing additional educational sessions for parents and children. The sessions are expected to address topics such as the purpose of orthodontic evaluations, the role of braces and other orthodontic appliances, treatment timelines, oral hygiene during orthodontic care, and questions families may have before beginning treatment.

The educational component is designed to help families understand that orthodontic treatment can vary considerably from one child to another. Some patients may require observation over time, while others may benefit from earlier treatment depending on their dental development and specific orthodontic concerns.

The service expansion comes as Lightning Orthodontics marks more than a decade of serving patients in the Lutz community. During that period, developments in digital imaging, scanning, and orthodontic treatment planning have changed how practices evaluate and document patients, including younger individuals undergoing developmental assessments.

For families considering a kids orthodontist in Lutz, FL, the expanded services provide additional opportunities for evaluating developing orthodontic concerns and discussing possible treatment options. The practice's announcement places particular emphasis on assessment, education, and the use of diagnostic information to determine an appropriate course of care for individual patients.

Lightning Orthodontics will continue providing orthodontic evaluations and treatment for children and other patients in Lutz and surrounding communities. Families seeking additional information about the recently expanded pediatric orthodontic services may contact the practice or visit its website for information about available appointments and evaluations.
