September 03, 2026 -

The Hornbuckle Agency, an Alfa Insurance agency based in Albertville, Alabama, has welcomed Ivey Marsh as a newly licensed Property and Casualty Insurance Agent. Marsh joins the agency as it expands its local team with a professional who brings deep personal roots to the Guntersville community she has always called home.

Marsh was born and raised in Guntersville, Alabama, and graduated from Guntersville High School in 2024, where she played both basketball and softball. Following high school, she continued her education at Snead State Community College, where she played softball for two years and earned an Associate's degree in Business in May.

Having now completed her licensing requirements, Marsh officially becomes a Property and Casualty Insurance Agent and begins this chapter of her career with The Hornbuckle Agency. In her new role, she assists individuals and families with a range of insurance needs, including auto insurance, homeowners insurance, renters insurance, and other coverage options available through the agency and Alfa Insurance.

Marsh's focus centers on serving as a local resource for community members who have questions about insurance or need help understanding their coverage. She has expressed particular interest in meeting new people, building relationships, and helping clients understand the options available to them as they protect their families and futures.

"Bringing Ivey onto the team reflects the agency's commitment to serving this community with people who genuinely know and care about it," said Dustin Hornbuckle, agency owner and local Alfa agent. "She grew up in Guntersville, and that connection matters when clients are looking for someone they can trust to help with important decisions about their coverage."

Hornbuckle noted that the addition of a newly licensed agent supports the agency's ongoing effort to remain accessible to the residents and families it serves across the region. "Ivey is starting a new chapter, and she is doing it in the same place she calls home," he said. "That kind of local presence helps people feel comfortable asking questions and getting the guidance they need."

For Marsh, the opportunity represents both a professional milestone and a chance to give back to the area that shaped her. She looks forward to growing within the profession while continuing to build relationships throughout the Guntersville community and the surrounding areas the agency serves.

The Hornbuckle Agency, led by Dustin Hornbuckle, is committed to informing clients about everyday risks and how those risks can affect their families and their futures. In addition to Albertville and Guntersville, the agency serves the Boaz, Arab, Geraldine, Crossville, Collinsville, Horton, and Douglas communities in Alabama. The agency offers a wide range of insurance services, including home, auto, life, farm, watercraft, commercial, church, umbrella, and manufactured home insurance. As part of Alfa Insurance, The Hornbuckle Agency focuses on helping local individuals, families, and businesses find coverage suited to their needs.
