

HHI Windows and Doors Tracks Rise in Bay and Bow Window Projects

September 03, 2026

BLUFFTON, SC - September 03, 2026 -

HHI Windows and Doors says it has seen increased interest in bay and bow window projects in Bluffton and is now tracking that demand more closely for planning. The company says it has seen more requests for bay and bow window installations in Bluffton over the past year, affecting scheduling and project consultations.

The company says many recent customers are renovating existing homes, with window and door replacements making up a large share of its recent projects. Bay and bow windows, which extend outward from the home, are showing up more often in homeowners' early renovation plans. In response, HHI Windows and Doors now tracks these projects separately from standard window replacement jobs.

Company representatives report that this shift is changing project lead times and on-site coordination. Because bay and bow windows require more complex framing, weatherproofing, and exterior finishing than standard flat windows, the company has added assessment steps before confirming installation dates. These steps include checking framing, evaluating exterior cladding, and documenting interior finish impacts so teams can be scheduled correctly.

In response to increased demand, the company has developed more detailed reference materials for its teams. HHI Windows and Doors is assembling examples of previous bay and bow window projects from various Bluffton neighborhoods, focusing on differences in elevation placement, roofline interaction, and room use. These references help teams plan site access, manage debris removal, and identify any needed trim or siding adjustments.

Operationally, HHI Windows and Doors now separates timelines for bay and bow window projects from other work. The team allows more time for larger multi-window projects and schedules simpler single-window jobs separately. This approach is intended to reduce rescheduling, improve delivery and labor coordination, and give homeowners clearer expectations about the work sequence.

The company says it is seeing bay and bow window projects in a range of Bluffton neighborhoods, including older subdivisions, newer communities, and homes near marsh or waterfront areas. HHI Windows and Doors closely considers neighborhood factors such as homeowners' association rules and access limits when planning projects.

HHI Windows and Doors says it plans its work in accordance with applicable building codes, including the South Carolina Residential Code and relevant wind design requirements, with attention to wind resistance and energy efficiency.

The company says it primarily serves Bluffton, Hilton Head Island, and Okatie in Beaufort County; Levy, Ridgeland, Hardeeville, Tillman, and Coosawhatchie in Jasper County, South Carolina; and the greater Savannah, Georgia, area.

The company is reviewing installation crews' experience on bay and bow window projects and using insights from completed jobs to refine checklists and procedures, aiming to standardize preparation and execution for more consistent results.

The company says the increase in bay and bow window projects may reflect increased home improvement activity among some Bluffton homeowners, based on recent project trends. For HHI Windows and Doors, this trend shows up in updated scheduling, more detailed site documentation, and revised team preparation processes.
