

Relentless Digital LLC Launches AI Search Visibility Service as Electrical Marketing Agency Expands Offerings

September 10, 2026

SAN TAN VALLEY, AZ - September 10, 2026 -

Relentless Digital LLC has introduced a new service designed to help home service contractors appear in AI-generated search results, marking one of the first efforts by a trades-focused agency to address the growing role of artificial intelligence in online search. The service uses structured FAQ content to position plumbing, electrical, HVAC, and roofing companies within the answers produced by AI-driven search tools.

The launch responds to a shift in how consumers locate local service providers. As search engines increasingly surface AI-generated summaries alongside traditional results, contractors that do not appear in those responses risk losing visibility with potential customers. Relentless Digital developed the service to help contractors structure their web content in ways that AI systems can more readily reference and cite.

"Search behavior is changing faster than most contractors can keep up with, and AI-generated answers are now shaping the first impression a customer forms about a business," said Joshua Crouch, Founder of Relentless Digital LLC. "The goal is to make sure the contractors served by this electrical marketing agency remain visible no matter how their future customers choose to search."

The new offering builds on the company's existing work as an electrician seo company, where structured content, local optimization, and technical improvements have long been used to raise search rankings. By extending those methods to AI search environments, Relentless Digital aims to prepare contractors for a landscape in which conventional page rankings and AI-generated responses operate side by side.

The announcement arrives during a period of measured growth for the company. Relentless Digital now serves more than 130 home service contractors across 150 North American markets and has expanded its team to 85 employees. The company has been recognized as a two-time Inc. 5000 award nominee and has been named to the Inc. Best Workplaces list.

As a roofer marketing agency and a provider of digital marketing services across multiple trades, the company reports that demand for search visibility support has increased alongside broader adoption of AI tools by consumers. Relentless Digital plans to refine the AI search service through ongoing analysis of how contractors appear in AI-generated responses compared with traditional search listings.

"Contractors have spent years earning their place at the top of local search results, and this work protects that investment as the technology evolves," Crouch said. "Structured content gives businesses a foundation that serves them across both traditional and AI-driven search."

Relentless Digital LLC is a digital marketing company that specializes in serving contractors in the plumbing, electrical, HVAC, and roofing industries. Built by professionals with more than a decade of experience in the trades, the company offers search engine optimization, Google Business Profile management, Local Service Ads management, reputation management, email marketing, web design, and its Bullseye Pro marketing and sales platform. The company focuses on measurable outcomes such as booked jobs and local market visibility, and it holds recognition as a Google Partner. Relentless Digital continues to develop services aimed at helping home service businesses adapt to changes in search technology and consumer behavior.
