Ionox released their high-quality Ionox pencil grips for children in a 6-pack on Amazon early last month. Previously available in a 12-pack, the 6-pack of Ionox pencil grips was designed to give customers the vibrant colors and comfort at a low price and smaller quantity.

Educators and parents who want to help children with their handwriting have been able to take advantage of the new package from Ionox, as the product was recently made available.

The silicone pencil grips from Ionox are designed to work on pens, pencils, crayons, and thin paintbrushes and markers—they're compatible with writing tools that are approximately seven millimeters around. Ionox recommends their pencil grips for children learning how to write, people with arthritis, and anyone wanting to draw, write or paint in a more comfortable way.

The ergonomic design accommodates both right- and left-handed individuals. The thick, FDA-approved silicone prevents slipping by holding the writing instrument in place. The pencil grips give people confidence when writing, as it makes the process smoother and easier.

Customers on Amazon have reported increased excitement for writing children's enthusiasm when using these pencil grips. Other reviewers have called the grips fun, and commended their educational value.

Ionox is still offering a 12-pack of their silicone grips, which optimal for teachers who may want to buy in bulk for the classroom. The pencil can be given out at school as classroom prizes, and to elevate the fun in everyday lessons. The grips come in a mix of six colors --yellow, pink blue, red, purple and green.
