Medical Clinic of Dr. Mark Neumann Announces Addition of Cold Laser Therapy Services

September 15, 2026

LAMBERTVILLE, MI - September 15, 2026 -
The medical clinic of Dr. Mark Neumann has officially announced the expansion of its healthcare services this season to include alternative management options. A central component of this service expansion is the integration of cold laser therapy in Monroe, MI, providing local adult patients with a non-invasive outpatient option. This announcement reflects broader healthcare trends in which outpatient facilities introduce low-level light modalities to address everyday physical discomforts. However, outcomes can vary significantly by condition and patient, and the clinical evidence supporting the efficacy of these treatments remains subject to ongoing evaluation. Dr. Mark Neumann has structured the practice to accommodate a wide array of patient needs, emphasizing outpatient care options that do not involve surgical procedures or extended recovery periods. The implementation of these expanded medical services represents the ongoing operational goals of the facility to provide accessible medical care to new and returning patients.

Technically categorized as low-level laser therapy, this specific treatment utilizes targeted wavelengths of light administered directly to specific areas of the body. Sessions are conducted in an outpatient setting, allowing patients to resume normal daily activities immediately following their scheduled appointments. This therapeutic option offers an alternative consideration for individuals seeking non-pharmaceutical options or those who may not be suitable candidates for surgical interventions. Patients are advised that individual results differ, and low-level laser therapy is not a guaranteed remedy for any specific medical condition. Medical staff assess each patient to determine if they are an appropriate candidate for this modality based on their unique physiological profile.

The medical practice operates under the direction of Dr. Mark Neumann. Throughout his career in patient care, he has maintained a focus on general health, wellness, and comprehensive clinical evaluations. In addition to fulfilling core medical training and state licensing requirements as D.O. and graduate of Palmer College of Chiropractic in Davenport, Iowa, Dr. Neumann integrates functional medicine strategies into his practice. These strategies generally involve evaluating how various physiological systems interact, with a focus on assessing potential underlying factors that may contribute to long-term health challenges. This approach informs the clinic's patient evaluation protocols, enabling a detailed review of lifestyle habits, metabolic markers, and overall physical health. This background contributes to an operational framework centered on structured patient assessments and individualized care planning, rather than focusing exclusively on symptom mitigation techniques.

Patient communication remains a routine priority for the facility, with staff providing educational information regarding how cold laser therapy in Monroe, MI, and functional health evaluations operate. By sharing general information about available procedures, expected costs, and standard medical protocols, the clinic seeks to assist patients in understanding their care options. Fostering an open dialogue regarding treatment plans ensures that individuals can make informed decisions about their medical care. The expanded services are currently available to new and existing adult patients seeking non-surgical medical evaluations and alternative therapeutic interventions. The facility remains dedicated to updating its technological resources and clinical methodologies to reflect current standards in the medical field.
