September 15, 2026 -

Stumpin' By Mike LLC has announced the expansion of its tree care operations to include tree removal services for residential and commercial properties in Ilion, New York. The expansion extends the company's existing service area and introduces another option for property owners managing trees that require removal. The announcement reflects the company's continued development within the regional tree care market. The newly available tree removal in Ilion, NY is intended to address property maintenance and safety considerations associated with unwanted or damaged trees.

Tree removal can become necessary for a variety of property-related circumstances. Trees may become damaged by severe weather, develop conditions that affect their stability, or outgrow the space available for healthy growth. In other cases, a tree may interfere with planned changes to a property or become difficult to maintain because of its location. Stumpin' By Mike LLC's expanded service provides a way for property owners in Ilion to address these situations through professional tree care.

The company was founded by Mike Johnson, whose work has focused on tree care and property maintenance. The expansion into Ilion represents a new stage in the company's regional operations and broadens the communities in which its services are available. Stumpin' By Mike LLC has stated that safety remains an important consideration when evaluating tree removal projects. Each property can present different conditions based on the tree's location, surrounding structures, and overall site layout.

Weather is another consideration associated with tree maintenance in the region. Storms and strong winds can damage branches and trees, sometimes creating conditions that require prompt attention. Stumpin' By Mike LLC also offers emergency storm response as part of its broader tree care services. The availability of storm-related assistance provides property owners with another option when trees or branches are affected by severe weather.

The company's expanded operations include complementary tree care services, including stump grinding and tree pruning. These services address different stages of tree and property maintenance and can be considered separately depending on the condition of a property. Pruning can be used as part of ongoing tree maintenance, while stump grinding addresses remaining portions of trees after removal. Together with tree removal, these services form a broader range of options for managing trees around residential and commercial properties.

Environmental considerations are also part of Stumpin' By Mike LLC's approach to tree care. The company has identified the reuse of tree debris as one method of reducing unnecessary waste generated during its operations. Materials such as branches and other woody debris can be processed into mulch where appropriate. Managing removed material responsibly can reduce the amount of organic waste sent elsewhere while providing a potential use for material generated during tree care work.

As part of its ongoing educational efforts, Stumpin' By Mike LLC has also introduced a blog series focused on general tree care information. The planned content addresses subjects such as recognizing potential tree health concerns, understanding pruning, and preparing properties for storm seasons. The resource is intended to provide residents with general information that can help them better understand common aspects of landscape and tree maintenance. The educational initiative complements the company's service expansion by providing information alongside its professional operations.

The announcement of the Ilion expansion comes as property owners continue to manage trees as part of broader property maintenance. Trees can contribute to outdoor environments but may also require attention when their condition, size, or location creates a concern. Professional evaluation can help determine whether removal, pruning, or another form of maintenance is appropriate for a particular situation. Stumpin' By Mike LLC's expanded service area gives Ilion property owners access to its existing range of tree care options.

With the addition of tree removal in Ilion, NY, Stumpin' By Mike LLC has expanded its regional operations while maintaining its broader focus on tree and landscape care. The company will continue providing tree removal, stump grinding, pruning, and storm response services as part of its operations. Its educational blog series will also provide additional information about tree maintenance and seasonal considerations. The Ilion expansion marks another development in the company's efforts to serve property owners across its growing service area.
