Leven Rose, a health and beauty company in Colorado Springs, CO, has launched a new product, Tomato Seed Oil. This 100% organic product helps treat damaged hair and skin damage, such as sunspots and wrinkles. Tomato Seed Oil is available through <https://www.levenrose.com/products/tomato-seed-oil-1-oz>.

Courtney Olson from Leven Rose says: "Few people know about the amazing benefits that Tomato Seed Oil offers, it is full of rich nutrients, including iron, manganese, and zinc. The oil absorbs into the skin really quickly and helps to rebuild healthy cells. This leads to a significant reduction in fine lines, sun damage, acne scars, and other damaging skin conditions."

Tomato Seed Oil is very nutrient dense. These nutrients can help the skin clear up, making it shiny and healthy. It contains high levels of natural fatty acids, as well as antioxidants, and these can increase the subtleness and smoothness of the skin. It also has been found to have strong anti-fungal properties, which make it suitable for night time use for clearing the skin of blackheads and blocked pores during rest.

The oil is also available through Amazon at <http://www.amazon.com/TRUSTED-Leven-Rose-Tomato-Seed/dp/B01E0AEV78>. Because it is 100 percent organic, it contains no parabens, fillers, additives, or chemicals. The tomatoes used for the seeds are non-GMO as well. The product is provided in a dark amber glass bottle with a glass dropper. This ensures the oil, which is light sensitive, does not go off, significantly extending its shelf life and ensuring it remains effective.
