KJ Limousine Services Inc. added a wheelchair accessible sedan to its fleet, expanding chauffeured transportation options for Metro Vancouver passengers who use wheelchairs.

KJ Limousine Services Inc. has added a wheelchair accessible sedan to its fleet, providing chauffeured transportation for passengers who use wheelchairs. The sedan is equipped with a rear-entry ramp and interior wheelchair securement hardware that allows passengers to remain in their mobility device throughout the trip without transferring to a vehicle seat. The company made the addition in response to client requests for accessible transportation that were not previously possible with its standard fleet of Lincoln Town Cars, luxury SUVs accommodating up to six passengers, and stretch limousines for larger parties.

"We added the wheelchair accessible sedan because we had clients contacting us who could not use our standard vehicles," said Hing Jong, owner of KJ Limousine Services Inc. "The sedan is equipped with a rear-entry ramp and interior securement system so passengers remain in their wheelchair throughout the trip. It is available for airport transfers to YVR, medical appointments at Metro Vancouver hospitals and clinics, and corporate event transportation. The demand was clear from calls we were receiving, and we wanted to serve those passengers properly with a vehicle designed for their needs."

The vehicle is available for airport transfers to Vancouver International Airport, where passenger volumes have increased in recent years and accessibility-related requests have grown. Medical transportation is another area of demand, with passengers traveling to appointments at Metro Vancouver hospitals, rehabilitation centers, and specialist clinics where standard vehicles cannot accommodate wheelchair users who cannot transfer from their mobility device. The sedan also serves as event transportation for weddings, conferences, and corporate gatherings where groups include one or more wheelchair users who require ramp-equipped vehicles rather than standard sedans or SUVs.

The wheelchair accessible sedan supplements KJ Limousine Services' existing fleet and represents a new service category rather than a replacement for any existing vehicle. The company's standard vehicles do not accommodate passengers who cannot transfer from a wheelchair, making the sedan a new capability that opens the company's services to a broader range of clients, including those traveling to medical appointments, attending conferences at the Vancouver Convention Centre where accessibility considerations are important, or requiring transportation for family events where a wheelchair user is part of the group.

KJ Limousine Services offers wheelchair accessible transportation for passengers who need ramp-equipped vehicles across the Lower Mainland. The company's airport transfer service includes real-time flight tracking so pickup times adjust automatically for schedule changes and delays. For groups and families, the luxury vehicle fleet includes SUVs and stretch limousines. and large groups that include both wheelchair users and ambulatory passengers traveling together.

KJ Limousine Services serves Vancouver, West Vancouver, North Vancouver, Burnaby, Richmond, Delta, Surrey, and surrounding communities across Metro Vancouver. The company has been operating in the region since 2008, providing professional chauffeurs for all of its vehicles with drivers trained in assisting passengers with various needs. Advance reservation is recommended for the wheelchair accessible sedan to ensure availability on requested dates, particularly during peak periods such as the conference season, cruise ship departure dates, and major events at BC Place Stadium and the Vancouver Convention Centre. Roundtrip discounts are available for multi-stop itineraries, and airport bookings include flight tracking for schedule changes.
