Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air Expands Service to Hendersonville Homeowners

September 25, 2026

HENDERSONVILLE, NC - September 25, 2026 -
Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air has expanded its service coverage to include Hendersonville, giving area homeowners local access to heating, cooling, and plumbing support from a family owned company that has operated in the region since 1969.

The expansion brings a full range of home comfort services to Hendersonville residents, including heating installation and repair, air conditioning service, plumbing, indoor air quality solutions, and ductwork. The company aims to serve homeowners who want dependable, whole home comfort support from a provider with deep roots in the community.

Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air has been family owned and operated since 1969, and the company has built its reputation across Duncan, Greenville, Greer, and Simpsonville over more than five decades. The addition of Hendersonville marks a natural step for a business that has grown steadily by focusing on neighborhood service and long term relationships with the families it serves.

"Adding Hendersonville reflects the way this company has always grown, by going where homeowners need reliable help with their heating, cooling, and plumbing," said Jay Mahaffey, owner of Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air. "Since 1969, the goal has stayed the same, which is to treat every home like it belongs to a neighbor."

Hendersonville homeowners can now reach the company for seasonal maintenance, system repairs, and installations across heating and cooling equipment. The local presence also covers plumbing needs such as water heaters, drains, and water treatment, along with services that support healthier indoor environments, including indoor air quality assessments and ductwork evaluation.

The move reflects broader demand for local trade services as aging home systems require timely maintenance and replacement. Heating and cooling equipment often needs professional attention ahead of seasonal temperature swings, and plumbing systems benefit from regular inspection to prevent larger issues. By establishing a footprint closer to Hendersonville residents, the company intends to shorten response times and provide familiar, local support.

"A lot of homeowners just want to know that the person showing up understands the area and stands behind the work," Mahaffey said. "That is what the Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air conditioning service has offered for generations, and Hendersonville families can now count on that same standard."

Beyond core heating, cooling, and plumbing work, Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air offers heat pumps, geothermal systems, duct-free systems, crawlspace encapsulation, and attic insulation. These services support energy efficiency and year round comfort for a variety of home types found throughout the region.

The expansion to Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air - Hendersonville continues a pattern of measured, community focused growth. Rather than entering a market quickly and thinly, the company has extended its established service model into a new area where homeowners were already seeking reliable trade support.

Tuck & Howell Plumbing, Heating & Air is a family owned home services company that has operated since 1969, providing heating, air conditioning, and plumbing services to Greenville and surrounding communities. The company serves multiple locations across the region, including Duncan, Greenville, Greer, Simpsonville, and now Hendersonville, and offers a broad set of services covering whole home comfort, indoor air quality, and water systems.
