People looking for a new way to become health conscious consumers and drink more water can now benefit from the new-and-improved Ionox flavor infuser bottle. The newest improvement to the bottle was just announced—the bottles will now feature a locking mechanism that prevents the mouthpiece cover from accidentally becoming dislodged when not in use. The flip-top cap not only locks, but is spill-proof, thanks to the bottle's design.

The bottles are available in five colors: blue, pink, turquoise, green and purple. They are on sale now and for the remainder of the summer. They're currently available on Amazon, for $12.95 per bottle.

This update makes the Ionox bottles easier to use, and better for on-the-go, in the gym, or during a commute. The bottles are already designed for these places, as they're sized to fit most car cup-holders and gym equipment, and feature a loop, so the bottle can be hung on a lanyard.

Many people who have purchased the bottle have reported that they're drinking more water than before the purchase. The bottle is ideal for people who do not like the plain "flavor" of water, and want to drink something sweeter without compromising their healthy diet.

The bottle's two infuser stems mean customers can use the longer stem for intense flavors, and the shorter stem for a subtler fruit flavor. The bottle also functions as a traditional bottle by removing the stem

The bottles are made from BPA-free, FDA food-grade Tritan. The body of the bottle is ergonomically design for easy carrying.
