

Sunstar Construction & Remodeling Expands Tenant Improvement and Commercial Renovation Support Across Southern Utah

September 26, 2026

ST. GEORGE, UT - September 26, 2026 -

Sunstar Construction & Remodeling, a licensed general contractor serving Southern Utah, Southern Nevada, and Northern Arizona, is highlighting its coordinated approach to tenant improvement and commercial renovation work as regional businesses continue to adapt their spaces to shifting operational needs.

Across the region, property owners, landlords, property managers, and commercial tenants frequently require updates to offices, retail spaces, restaurants, industrial buildings, and other commercial interiors. These projects often involve reconfiguring layouts, executing interior build-outs, installing flooring, modifying walls, and updating finishes, all while accounting for code requirements and tight scheduling. Tenant improvements by Sunstar Construction & Remodeling are structured to address these overlapping demands within a single managed process.

Many commercial projects proceed while a business remains open, which places added importance on scheduling and communication. The company coordinates each phase to reduce interruptions to daily operations, working with tenants and owners to align construction timelines with lease terms, occupancy needs, and deadlines. This coordination extends to reconfiguring retail floor plans, updating professional suites, and preparing industrial and office environments for new uses.

Code compliance remains a central consideration in commercial renovation work. Adjustments to layouts, electrical systems, accessibility features, and building systems must meet local and state requirements, and the company manages inspections and documentation as part of its project oversight. Transparent bidding and ongoing communication are used to keep property owners, brokers, and tenants informed throughout each stage.

"Commercial spaces rarely stay static, and businesses need renovation partners who understand that operations cannot simply stop during construction," said Kevin Tatom, owner of Sunstar Construction & Remodeling. "Much of the work involves planning around occupied buildings, coordinating trades, and keeping owners and tenants informed so that timelines and budgets stay predictable."

The company reports that demand for commercial interior work has grown as businesses reposition existing spaces rather than relocate. This includes complete interior build-outs for incoming tenants, updates to aging professional suites, and layout changes that improve functionality for expanding operations. Sunstar Construction & Remodeling in St. George serves as the base for projects throughout the surrounding communities, including Washington, Santa Clara, and Ivins.

"Property managers and landlords are often balancing multiple tenants and lease deadlines at once," Tatom added. "Clear scheduling and consistent communication allow those stakeholders to plan with confidence, whether the project is a single suite or a larger commercial build-out."

Beyond commercial renovation, the company handles new construction, building additions, restoring and rebuilding, and design and build services. Its residential work includes bathroom and kitchen remodels, supported by an in-house bathroom cabinet shop intended to improve timelines and quality control.

Sunstar Construction & Remodeling operates as a general contractor based in St. George, Utah, and is fully licensed to work across Southern Utah, Southern Nevada, and Northern Arizona. The company serves tenants, owners, brokers, property managers, and homeowners, emphasizing clear communication, transparent bidding, and efficient project management across commercial and residential projects throughout the region.
