

Hook'em Up Charters Highlights Multi-Day Fishing Charters for Extended Gulf Angling

September 30, 2026

Panama City, Florida - September 30, 2026 -

Hook'em Up Charters, a family-operated fishing outfit based in Panama City Beach, Florida, has confirmed its status as one of the few local operators equipped to run extended overnight trips into the Gulf of Mexico. The distinction positions the company to serve anglers seeking longer voyages in pursuit of larger offshore species that shorter outings cannot reach.

Most fishing operations departing from the region focus on half-day and full-day runs that remain closer to shore. Hook'em Up multi-day charters extend the reach of participating anglers by allowing boats to travel farther into the Gulf, where big game and deep-water species are more commonly found. These extended fishing charter trips give both seasoned fishermen and dedicated sport anglers additional time on the water to target the catches that draw visitors to the area.

The company operates out of Captain Anderson Marina and maintains a fleet that includes vessels capable of accommodating groups of up to 20 passengers. Its range of services covers half-day, full-day, and overnight excursions, along with shark fishing trips, reef fishing, and blue water trolling. Hooke'm Up Charters serves the Panama City and 30A areas and caters to a broad audience, from small children and first-time anglers to experienced offshore fishermen.

Owner and operator Capt. BJ Burkett, a third-generation fisherman, oversees the multi-day fishing charter trips and draws on decades of family fishing knowledge to guide customers to productive waters.

"Extended trips open up parts of the Gulf that a single-day run simply cannot reach," said BJ Burkett, owner and operator of Hook'em Up Charters. "When anglers have more time on the water, they have a genuine shot at the larger offshore species that make this area worth the trip."

The overnight fishing charter also allows guides to adjust plans based on conditions and fish activity rather than working against the clock. Burkett noted that the added flexibility often results in a more complete fishing experience for those who make the journey.

"Fishing changes throughout the day and into the night, and being out there across a full cycle lets everyone aboard see how the Gulf works," Burkett said. "It becomes as much about the experience on the water as the catch itself."

The extended fishing charters complement the company's shorter trips, which remain available for families and visitors with limited time. Trolling runs, bottom fishing, and reef excursions are offered alongside the longer voyages, giving customers a spectrum of options suited to varying skill levels and schedules.

Hook'em Up Charters continues to operate its vessels, the Hooked Up and the Game Changer, from its slips at Captain Anderson Marina. The company emphasizes private trips that keep each outing focused on the group aboard rather than combining separate parties.
