Home Care Book, which is a non-medical home care agency that operates out of Dallas, TX, has a unique approach with its 'medical oversight for non-medical care'. This involves the services of the company's compassionate caregivers who assist clients in their activities of daily living. Each care plan is designed based on the client's specific personality and needs.

Nick Pauleit, the founder of Home Care Book, says: "Our goal is to provide compassionate, professional care. Whether our client is transitioning home from a stay at a medical facility or wanting to remain independent in their own home setting, we assist with all of their activities of daily living. Our services range from bathing and dressing our clients to preparing their meals. We also provide companionship, medication reminders, memory care, transportation and more."

Home Care Book's Chief Medical Officer, Chris Gallagher, is board certified in internal medicine and cardiology. "The healthcare system attracts mostly compassionate individuals. Rarely does our healthcare system allow for the opportunity to provide dedicated, one-on-one care. Home Care Book is the exception, it benefits both clients and caregivers seeking dedicated, one-on-one care, because that is the only way our care is delivered.?

Each client and caregiver are assigned to a dedicated Care Manager, which oversees the care plan, schedule, updates and more. Home Care Book spends a lot of time and effort in finding quality caregivers, most of which are licensed as Certified Nurse Aides (CNAs). The caregivers that are hired all have years of experience and feel they have a true calling to deliver compassionate care. The team has the ability to aid clients from a few hours to 24/7 around the clock care. People are encouraged to learn more about Home Care Book through their website.

Those who have used the home caregiver services have been overwhelmingly positive about the care that the company provides. "Making a decision to get home health care for my mom was difficult," says Kathy on the company's website. "Home Care Book helped with the ease and transition of getting support for my mom. My mom enjoys her caregivers and looks forward to them coming. Although I live out of state, Home Care Book is very responsive. I know my mom is being well taken care of by dedicated and compassionate staff. I would recommend Home Care Book to anyone that is looking for care for their loved one."
