Southern Turf Announces Expanded Turf Supply for the Region

September 23, 2026

September 23, 2026 -
Southern Turf has announced an expansion of its turf supply operations to serve residential, commercial, and landscaping projects across the Eurobodalla region. The expansion includes greater availability of Eurobodalla turf, providing local property owners and landscaping professionals with another option for establishing and maintaining outdoor lawn areas. The expanded supply is intended to support projects of different sizes, from private gardens and residential lawns to larger commercial and community spaces.

The announcement comes as landscaping remains an important consideration for residential properties, commercial developments, public areas, and other outdoor spaces throughout the region. Southern Turf?s expanded operations are intended to make turf products and related information more accessible to customers seeking options suited to local growing conditions. This includes providing information that can assist customers when assessing the practical requirements of establishing a new lawn.

The Eurobodalla turf supplied by Southern Turf is intended for a range of landscaping applications, including residential lawns, commercial properties, recreational areas, and other landscaped environments. Turf selection can play an important role in establishing a lawn that is appropriate for its location, particularly when factors such as soil conditions, sunlight, rainfall, foot traffic, and ongoing maintenance requirements are considered. Understanding these factors before installation can help property owners plan for the ongoing care of their lawn.

As part of the expansion, Southern Turf is also providing information about turf selection, installation, and ongoing care. Educational resources can help property owners and landscaping professionals understand the considerations involved in establishing a new lawn and maintaining healthy turf throughout the year. Information about preparation and maintenance can also help customers better understand the requirements associated with different landscaping applications.

Robert Smith, who operates Southern Turf, said the expansion reflects the company?s continued focus on serving customers in the Eurobodalla area and providing information that supports informed landscaping decisions. The company?s approach includes considering the practical requirements associated with different turf applications rather than treating every lawn as having the same needs. This consideration can be particularly relevant for properties with different levels of sunlight, use, and available maintenance.

Turf can be used in both residential and commercial settings, with the appropriate variety and maintenance practices depending on the intended application. Residential homeowners may consider factors such as appearance, household use, and available maintenance time, while commercial and public spaces may require consideration of heavier foot traffic and larger areas. Property owners may also need to consider how seasonal conditions and site characteristics could affect long-term lawn maintenance.

Southern Turf?s expanded presence in the Eurobodalla region also provides an opportunity to share information about responsible lawn management. Appropriate watering, mowing practices, soil preparation, and seasonal maintenance can all influence turf performance over time. Providing customers with practical information alongside turf products is part of the company?s broader effort to support local landscaping projects and help property owners understand ongoing lawn care requirements.

The company has also developed resources addressing the characteristics and applications of different turf products. These materials are intended to help customers compare available options and understand the factors that may influence turf selection for a particular property. By providing accessible information, Southern Turf aims to assist customers in considering the suitability of different turf products for their individual sites.

The expansion is relevant to homeowners planning new lawns as well as landscapers, property managers, developers, and other professionals involved in outdoor property improvements. Access to locally available turf can help streamline planning for projects where establishing a finished lawn is part of a broader landscaping schedule. It can also provide landscaping professionals with an additional local supply option when planning projects across the region.

Southern Turf will continue supplying turf products and providing information to customers throughout the Eurobodalla region. The company?s services are intended to support a variety of lawn and landscaping requirements while helping customers understand the care associated with establishing and maintaining turf. The expanded operations will allow the company to continue engaging with local property owners and landscaping professionals as projects develop across the area.
