

Ionox Digital Tire Pressure Gauge Sale in Full Swing

June 11, 2016

June 11, 2016 -

The annual Ionox Father's Day Sale began yesterday, June 10 on all Ionox digital tire pressure gauges. The sale is happening on Amazon, where the gauges will be made available for $9.95 for the black model, and $8.95 for the silver model. The tire pressure gauges are digitized and backlit, making them preferable over pencil-style gauges for nighttime use and visibility.

The durable and easy-to-use gauges feature a die cast metal casing. The ergonomic design of this metal body is covered in a rubberized non-slip grip, to make it easier to hold and use.

In a press release yesterday, an Ionox spokesperson said, "We think a lot of dads, fathers and auto enthusiasts will love getting our gauge as a gift. It's a nice departure from traditional Father's Day gifts, like barbecue tools or a new tie. A tire pressure gauge is practical and long-lasting, especially with our satisfaction guarantee."

The gauges have been a popular gift item, according to Amazon reviews posted about the product. One customer said that the gauge made a great gift for her husband, and another recommended it as a gift for fathers.

Amazon reviewers have expressed satisfaction with the gauges durability and accuracy, claiming that the product surpassed expectations with its high-quality construction and easy-to-read display.

Maintaining optimal tire pressure is necessary for extending tire life, as well as the life of a vehicle. Having properly inflated tires makes vehicles safer, and more fuel-efficient.

Due to its ability to measure both low and high pressure, the versatile gauge can be used with automotive cars, motorcycles, dirt bikes, trucks, trailers, RVs bicycles, ATVs, commercial automobiles and semi tractors.
