Copyfast Printing Introduces New Conference Printing Packages for Corporate Events and Trade Shows

September 28, 2026

SCOTTSDALE, AZ - September 28, 2026 -

Copyfast Printing, a commercial printing company based in Scottsdale, Arizona, is introducing a new collection of conference printing packages designed to help businesses and event organizers coordinate printed materials for corporate meetings, conventions, seminars, and trade shows. The new packages combine frequently requested printing products into coordinated solutions tailored to different event sizes, promotional requirements, and production schedules.

The launch comes during Arizona's fall conference season, when businesses and professional organizations prepare for corporate gatherings, industry conventions, and networking events throughout the Phoenix metropolitan area. The new program is designed to simplify conference preparation by allowing organizers to coordinate multiple printing requirements through a single project. Rather than managing separate orders for conference programs, promotional materials, and event signage, customers can select a package based on their event's needs and customize its contents.

Copyfast Printing's new program introduces three package options designed to accommodate different types of corporate events. The Conference Essentials Package is intended for smaller meetings, professional seminars, workshops, and corporate training sessions. It combines commonly requested materials such as printed agendas, informational brochures, presentation folders, and attendee name badges. Organizers can customize quantities, paper stocks, and finishing options to accommodate their event requirements.

The Exhibitor Display Package focuses on businesses participating in conventions, trade shows, and industry exhibitions. Available products include retractable banners, large-format posters, promotional flyers, business cards, and exhibition graphics. The package allows participating businesses to coordinate printed marketing materials and display graphics while maintaining consistent branding across their exhibition spaces.

The Complete Conference Package is designed for organizations coordinating larger corporate events and conventions that require attendee materials, promotional printing, and venue signage. Depending on event specifications, the package can include conference programs, presentation folders, booklets, directional signs, banners, and exhibitor materials. Customers can customize the package to accommodate attendance figures, venue requirements, and individual branding preferences.

Beyond combining individual printing products, the new program introduces a coordinated approach to project planning and production scheduling. Conference organizers can discuss their complete printing requirements with Copyfast Printing, establish artwork submission deadlines, review production specifications, and coordinate the completion of materials for their events. This approach addresses common challenges in conference preparation, including managing multiple printing projects while accommodating changes to attendance, presentation schedules, sponsorship information, and exhibitor requirements.

By consolidating printing requirements into customizable packages, the company aims to simplify communication between event organizers and its production team while reducing the administrative work associated with coordinating separate printing orders. The program also allows businesses to maintain consistent branding across different printing formats. Conference programs, promotional brochures, exhibition graphics, and directional signage can be produced using coordinated artwork, colors, and messaging.

The new conference printing packages are available for organizations preparing for fall 2026 events and future corporate gatherings throughout Scottsdale and the greater Phoenix metropolitan area. Businesses hosting conferences, attending trade shows, or organizing professional seminars can contact Copyfast Printing to discuss package options, customized pricing, and production schedules. The company also continues to offer individual printing services for customers whose requirements fall outside the new packages.
