September 29, 2026 -

Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping is highlighting a new offering at its Lily Pad Garden Center in the Jackson-area market: Seasonal Planter Subscriptions. The service expands the ways customers can use the garden center by providing curated seasonal planter arrangements for homes and offices.

The Seasonal Planter Subscription is currently identified by Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping as a new service. Through the program, the company creates distinctive arrangements using seasonal plants and installs them onsite. Customers can use planters they already own or work with the company to purchase new planters for the arrangements.

The service is designed to provide changing combinations of blooms and foliage throughout the year without requiring customers to assemble and plant the arrangements themselves.

The addition complements the existing inventory and resources available through the garden center in Jackson, MI. Lily Pad Garden Center carries annuals and perennials, trees and shrubs, gardening tools and décor, pots and planters, and potting soils and composts, including Dairy Doo products.

Customers purchasing larger plant materials can also arrange professional delivery and installation. Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping states that delivery and installation are available for items including trees, shrubs, and other plant materials.

In addition to its retail inventory, Lily Pad Garden Center operates an Education Center offering gardening and landscaping tips, workshops, and other resources for gardeners with different levels of experience. A Potting Station is also available for customers preparing plants, soil, and containers.

These resources give customers several ways to approach garden and landscape projects in one location. A property owner may purchase individual plants and supplies, use the Potting Station, seek educational resources, arrange professional delivery and installation for larger materials, or use the new subscription service for seasonal planter arrangements.

Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping also continues to update the garden center's product and service mix. The company states that Lily Pad Garden Center is continually evolving with seasonal specials, gardening supplies, products, and services. Its frequently asked questions also note that the business works to bring in more garden décor as it grows, including products from local vendors when available.

For customers searching for an item that is not currently in stock, the garden center accepts special-order requests. Customers can provide a wish list, and staff will attempt to locate the requested plants or products. Custom planters and arrangements are also available at individual pricing.

The garden center in Jackson, MI additionally offers guidance on the plants customers purchase. Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping describes education as part of its garden center operations and encourages customers to contact or revisit the business with plant-care questions after a purchase.

For professionally installed plant material, customers should be aware of the conditions Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping publishes for its one-year guarantee. According to the company's FAQ, the guarantee applies when Wilcox performs the planting and an irrigation system or drip system is present. The company does not publish additional guarantee exclusions or complete terms on its FAQ page, so customers should contact Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping directly to confirm all applicable conditions before installation.

The Seasonal Planter Subscription adds another option for customers who want ongoing seasonal changes without completing each planting themselves. Rather than purchasing individual plants and creating each arrangement independently, subscribers can have arrangements created and installed onsite by the company. Wilcox Lawn & Landscaping says the service is available for both homes and offices.

The new service also fits alongside the broader selection at Lily Pad Garden Center, which focuses on plants, soils, composts, gardening supplies, décor, and resources appropriate for outdoor projects. The company's main website also identifies pond products among the garden center's available supplies.
