

Danville Music Highlights In-House Guitar Repair and Setup Service Ahead of Holiday Season

November 06, 2026

Danville, California - November 06, 2026 -
Danville Music, a full-service music store at 115 Town and Country Drive, Suite E, in Danville, California, is drawing attention to its in-house guitar repair and setup service as the holiday season approaches. The store handles guitar repairs, restrings and adjustments on site, with a typical turnaround of one to two days. Danville Music provides guitar repair, setups and restrings for guitar players in Danville, San Ramon, Walnut Creek and across the Tri-Valley.

The service covers electric and acoustic instruments, including high-end, budget and vintage guitars. Players across San Ramon, Lafayette, Pleasant Hill, Concord, Pleasanton, Dublin and Livermore can bring instruments in for routine work that is completed quickly. Setups and in-store adjustments are performed free of charge on instruments purchased from the store.

Major guitar work is handled separately. Refretting, electronics repair, restorations, neck resets and refinishing are performed by partner guitar technicians who are authorized service and warranty centers for brands including Taylor. This arrangement allows Danville Music to address everyday maintenance in house while directing more involved projects to specialists.

"The idea behind Danville Music guitar repair is that a player should not have to wait weeks for a basic restring or setup," said Adam Schuman of Danville Music. "A guitar that plays well is a guitar that gets played, and we want instruments heading into the holidays to be ready right away."

The timing reflects a seasonal pattern. Guitars that have been stored, gifted or pulled out of a closet often need fresh strings and an adjustment before they sound and feel right. By keeping restrings and adjustments on site, Danville Music can return many instruments within one to two days during a period when demand tends to rise.

"People bring us everything from a first guitar to a vintage instrument that has been in the family for decades," Schuman said. "We treat each one the same way, with careful attention and honest guidance about what it actually needs."

The repair and setup work complements the store's broader role in the community. Danville Music, 115 Town and Country Drive, Suite E, Danville, CA 94526, (925) 743-0898, danvillemusic.com, has supported local music programs throughout the Tri-Valley since 1989.

Danville Music is a locally owned and operated music store led by Adam Schuman and Cameron Brochier. It sells electric, acoustic and bass guitars, amplifiers, effects and band and orchestra instruments, including used and consignment guitars. The store is a PRS Signature Dealer and a Taylor Premier Dealer, and it carries Gibson, Fender, Suhr, Tom Anderson, Music Man, Duesenberg and more. Alongside instrument sales, the store offers rentals and repair services for guitar players throughout the San Francisco Bay Area and the surrounding Tri-Valley communities.
