

R'stoyeurs Reveals That The French Press Offers A Healthy Way To Drink Coffee

June 21, 2016

June 21, 2016 - PRESSADVANTAGE -

R'stoyeurs, a coffee business based in Watertown, WI, wants to point out that the French press is actually a healthy way to drink coffee because it provides a way to drink coffee in such a way that plastic does not touch the hot beverage. Thus, coffee lovers can be assured that their coffee is free from bisphenol A or BPA. BPA is used in certain plastics and is suspected to have negative effects on health.

Rebecca Kauffeld founded R'stoyeurs after she experienced a natural breech birth. This inspired her, a stay at home mom, to create something that combined her personal two passions: coffee and birthing. She got to work on creating and sourcing products that enable people to enjoy coffee as much as possible, and she uses the proceeds of this to support her own voluntary work as a doula. The French press, which is one of the company's popular products, is currently exclusively available on Amazon.

Rebecca Kauffeld herself says: "We love our French press and what it stands for. It's a pure way to drink coffee that's free of plastic touching the hot coffee. Free of BPA. Extracting a better cup. We use it everyday!"

R'stoyeurs works together exclusively with Golden Source Direct. They are each other's exclusive clients as present, supporting each other to achieve a number of positive goals. Both companies, as can be seen on their About Us pages, are committed to making a positive impact on the world as a whole. They achieve this by offering products such as the French press, which is BPA free, and also by listing reusable k cups and more. In so doing, they empower people to be healthier and to save money, while at the same time protecting the planet. Furthermore, their purchases enable Rebecca to continue her important work as a doula, paving the way for a happier, healthier, future generation.

Those interested in the R'stoyours and Golden Source Direct products, or who want to learn more about Rebecca's doula work and her personal story, are encouraged to like the company's Facebook page. Details about any new products, promotions, or special offers are also listed there, as well as giving people the opportunity to build a coffee-loving community.

###

For more information about R'stoyours, contact the company here: R'stoyoursMs. Rebecca C. Kauffeld 920-253-7560 info@rstoyours.com W8370 Long Rd. Watertown, WI 53098

R'stoyours

Coffee with a mission started by stay-at-home mom, Rebecca C. Kauffeld and her husband Seth. They bring healthy, practical kitchen solutions & more for your home. We are more than coffee, we are a community that cares.

Website: <https://goldensourcedirect.com>

Email: info@rstoyours.com

Phone: 920-253-7560

Powered by PressAdvantage.com