

Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite Expands Family Law Presence to Tampa with Dedicated Website

October 09, 2026

JACKSONVILLE, FL - October 09, 2026 -

Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite has expanded its family law services into Tampa, opening a new office and launching a dedicated Tampa website designed to provide information and resources for individuals and families navigating Florida family law matters. The new location, situated at 515 W Bay Street, Tampa, FL 33606, extends the firm's reach to families throughout Tampa and the surrounding communities.

The expansion reflects an effort to make family law information and legal services more accessible to area residents who are facing significant changes in their family circumstances. The newly launched website serves as an online resource outlining the firm's Tampa family law presence, offering an introduction to the range of matters the office handles and the legal processes available under Florida law.

Family law issues often require individuals to understand both the governing statutes and the procedures that apply to their situation. The Tampa office addresses matters involving divorce, the care and custody of children, financial concerns such as support and property division, and the legal adjustments that accompany changing family dynamics. By presenting this information in one accessible location, the firm aims to help residents better understand their options before and during legal proceedings.

"Opening a Tampa office allows the firm to serve families in a growing region who are often searching for clear, reliable information during difficult moments," said Jay Henderlite, a representative of Sasso Guerrero & Henderlite Tampa. "The goal with the new website is to give people a starting point for understanding Florida family law and the processes that may affect their families."

The firm's attorneys bring experience across a broad spectrum of family law matters, including divorce, child custody and support, paternity, adoption, mediation, modifications of existing orders, and marital agreements. The Tampa location is intended to connect residents of the region with these services close to home, while the dedicated website provides educational material that individuals can review at their own pace.

Henderlite noted that the firm intends to develop additional Tampa-focused resources over time. "Family law touches people during some of the most personal moments of their lives," he said. "Establishing a local presence in Tampa, supported by an online resource built specifically for this community, reflects a commitment to meeting families where they are."

The Tampa office can be reached at 813-291-3138. The firm anticipates building on this foundation with continued outreach and information tailored to the needs of Tampa-area families.
