

Painting Contractor Plans Fall Exterior Work Around Holiday Hosting

October 15, 2026

Steep Hollow, Texas - October 15, 2026 -

Guaranteed Painting Company is planning its fall exterior painting schedule in Conroe and the surrounding Montgomery County communities around the dates homeowners will host family and guests for Thanksgiving and the year-end holidays. The decision gives each fall exterior project a fixed completion date, set by the homeowner's first gathering of the season rather than by an open-ended timeline.

Guaranteed Painting Company provides exterior painting for homeowners across Conroe, Montgomery, Willis, and Magnolia, with fall projects booked against the date each household expects its first guests. Every fall, homeowners in these communities ask for exterior work to be completed before the holidays, and the company builds that date into the schedule when the project is quoted. Crews working in the area are coordinated from the company's office in The Woodlands, to the south.

Planning around a hosting date changes the order in which exterior work is carried out. Repairs come first, with stucco repair and the replacement of damaged wood completed before any coating goes on, so no repair is left unfinished as the deadline approaches. The surfaces guests see on arrival, including the front of the house, the entry, and the fence line, are then scheduled to be finished ahead of the rest of the project.

The deadline does not shorten preparation. Trenching, in which soil is raked back from the base of the exterior walls so paint coverage extends below the soil line, stays in the schedule on every project, alongside the rest of the company's preparation sequence. The company regards trenching as a step that is often overlooked in exterior work, and it ensures the lower edge of each wall is coated rather than stopping where the soil begins.

"Every fall we hear from homeowners in Conroe and the towns around it who want the outside of the house finished before family arrives for Thanksgiving, so we plan our exterior schedule around those dates," said Doug Caris, CEO of Guaranteed Painting Company. "Keeping our time commitments is the first promise in our guarantee, and it matters most when a homeowner has a date that will not move. What we won't do is cut preparation to meet it, and that includes trenching below grade so the paint goes past the soil line."

Fence and gate painting can be planned into the same project, since a fence and gate are among the first things visitors see from the street and contribute to a home's curb appeal alongside the walls behind them. Color decisions are settled before crews arrive, and the Sherwin-Williams color simulation tool allows homeowners to preview proposed exterior colors before work begins. Agreeing on a scheme early protects the timetable, because a change of color once painting has started would cost days the homeowner does not have.

Because the work takes place outside, the interior of the home stays in use for the length of the project, and households can carry on with their own preparations for guests while crews work on the exterior. The company's preparation-first approach was developed for exterior finishes that need to hold up in the Texas climate, and the same standard applies to fall projects as to work at any other time of year. Projects are inspected by a foreman before the crew leaves the property.

Operating in Texas for more than two decades, Guaranteed Painting Company holds an A+ rating from the Better Business Bureau, where it has been an accredited business since 2013. The company reports a 5.0-star Google rating across more than 100 reviews at its two locations, in Bryan and The Woodlands. Its work is covered by warranty options, and the company is fully bonded, licensed, and insured.

For homeowners in Conroe and across Montgomery County, fall exterior painting is scheduled against the date guests arrive, with repairs, preparation, and the most visible surfaces completed before the holidays begin.
