Orlando, FL ? June 14, 2016? Warts are small lesions on the skin that is typically caused by human papilloma virus (HPV). It is benign and can affect any areas of the body such as the hands and fingers. There are medications available but there are also natural remedies believed to be helpful for this skin condition.

Curcumin is a potentially effective solution for stubborn warts. There are flat warts and there are also grainy, bumpy ones. When warts become too unsightly or irritating, measures such as liquid nitrogen, lasers, and cryosurgery are used.

?There are also home remedies such as curcumin believed to be helpful for the condition,? said Divine Bounty spokesperson, Melissa Scott.

According to Robert Gary, Ph.D., an associate professor of microbiology and immunology at Tulane University School of Medicine, about 10 percent of the population suffers from wart at any given time.

The university of Maryland Medical Center reveals warts could be transmitted through direct contact or touching the item used by a person infected with HPV virus.

Curcumin, on the other hand, is a polyphenol found in turmeric, which is an ancient, medicinal spice. Turmeric has been used since time immemorial in various cultures. It is believed to have the ability to fight a range of conditions.

In traditional Chinese and Ayurvedic medicine, turmeric has been used as herbal remedy in fighting a myriad of conditions. This includes skin infections, indigestion, and wounds. Curcumin's antiviral properties are believed to help fight warts.

Naturopaths and herbalists recommend the use of turmeric due to its therapeutic properties. Some of its healing substances are antiviral, antibacterial, anti-inflammatory, and antioxidant properties.

In a clinical study published in the Journal of Ethnopharmacology, it was revealed that curcumin could potentially help prevent the replication of Hepatitis B virus.

To use turmeric against warts, sufferers only need to combine turmeric powder with olive oil. Once the paste is applied on the affected areas, they may cover them with surgical tape. They may apply the turmeric paste on a daily basis.

Today, many people believe in the therapeutic effects of turmeric. There are those who even use curcumin supplements on a daily basis to increase their protection against a variety of conditions. Turmeric has long been thought to be good for skin health. As a matter of fact, turmeric is widely used to fight various skin conditions.

Curcumin supplements can be taken on a daily basis. Individuals who want to take advantage of its healing benefits may choose curcumin supplements with BioPerine. BioPerine is thought to enhance curcumin absorption inside the body (amazon.com/Turmeric-Curcumin-BioPerine-Pepper-Extract/dp/B00VSVKJ81/).
