

Premier Medical Highlights Convenient Walk-In Care at Its James Island Urgent Care Clinic

October 14, 2026

October 14, 2026 -
Premier Medical, a James Island urgent care clinic, is helping families and residents access timely medical care without the need for a scheduled appointment through its clinic on Folly Road. As busy schedules and unexpected illnesses make convenient healthcare increasingly important, the physician-led provider is emphasizing walk-in access to urgent care, primary care, and pediatric services for the surrounding community.

The clinic operates on extended weekday and Saturday hours, a schedule designed to accommodate patients who need medical attention beyond the traditional workday. As a James Island urgent care clinic, the location treats a range of non-life-threatening conditions, including allergic reactions, sore throat, ear infections, urinary tract infections, dehydration, and minor injuries. The clinic also provides routine screening exams, sports physicals, and prescription services for patients of all ages.

Operating on a walk-in basis, the clinic does not require appointments, giving residents a local option for addressing common illnesses and minor injuries. The provider notes that urgent care can serve as outpatient treatment for injury or illness, offering immediate attention for conditions that would otherwise require a scheduled visit. For many patients, this model offers an alternative to the extended wait times often associated with emergency room visits for non-emergency concerns.

"Many families face situations where they need medical attention quickly but cannot wait days for an appointment or spend hours in an emergency room," said Dr. Karey Breen, a physician at Premier Medical. "Offering care on a walk-in basis allows residents to address health concerns when they arise, which can make a meaningful difference in how quickly they recover and return to their daily routines."

The walk-in clinic in James Island is part of a locally owned healthcare group with on-site physician ownership, meaning providers are actively involved in daily operations. This structure allows the clinic to focus on personalized attention rather than relying on off-site management. The provider accepts most insurance plans and aims to make care accessible and affordable for the Charleston County community.

"The goal is to practice medicine the way it should be practiced, with the whole patient in mind," Dr. Breen added. "Being present and involved in the community allows the team to build relationships with patients and understand their ongoing health needs, whether they visit for an urgent concern or for continuing primary care."

Beyond urgent care, the clinic provides comprehensive primary care services for managing chronic conditions such as high blood pressure, high cholesterol, diabetes, and thyroid disease. Family doctor services extend to patients of all ages, including women's health, regular check-ups, and prescription management. Pediatric care addresses the health needs of children, from routine visits to treatment for illness.

The emphasis on extended hours and walk-in access reflects a broader trend in healthcare toward convenience and local availability, particularly for families balancing work, school, and unexpected health concerns.
