Brandt's Heating Cooling & Electrical Announces Shane's 21 Years of Service Leadership

October 13, 2026

Kokomo, Indiana - October 13, 2026 -
Brandt's Heating Cooling & Electrical is recognizing Shane for reaching 21 years of service with the family-owned HVAC and electrical company. The milestone highlights a long tenure in the company's service operation and provides an opportunity to recognize the role experienced service leadership plays in maintaining continuity across a growing team.

Shane is the Service Manager and leads the service department. The company site describes his background as being rooted in HVAC repair and maintenance, with attention to detail and technical expertise applied across routine maintenance and complex repairs. His role connects field service work with the company's broader standards for quality, customer care, safety, and professional training.

The company website identifies Brandt's as a family-owned and operated business serving homes and businesses in Kokomo, Logansport, Monticello, Westfield, Noblesville, and surrounding communities. The company provides heating, air conditioning, indoor air quality, electrical, water heater, air duct cleaning, whole-house generator, and commercial HVAC and refrigeration services.

Within that broader operation, Shane's position places him at the center of the company's service function. Brandt's describes its service team as working across maintenance, repairs, and emergency needs, while technicians are required to maintain professional credentials and receive ongoing company and factory training. The company states that its technicians are licensed, NATE certified, EPA certified, and continuously trained on industry developments.

The company is recognizing the milestone as part of the continuing development of its service team. Shane's role has remained connected to the technical side of the business, where HVAC maintenance and repair knowledge supports the department's day-to-day operations. Brandt's descriptions of Shane emphasize attention to detail, technical expertise, quality, and customer satisfaction as elements of his service leadership responsibilities.

Lindsay Brandt, Marketing Coordinator, said Shane's tenure reflects the company's emphasis on experience, leadership, and continuity within its team.

"Shane's 21 years of service represent the kind of dedication and leadership that defines our company culture. His commitment to our customers, his knowledge of the industry, and the example he sets for our team have made a lasting impact on Brandt's. We're grateful for everything he has contributed over the years,? said Lindsay Brandt, Marketing Coordinator.

The milestone also comes as Brandt's continues to describe ongoing training and technical knowledge as central elements of its service operation. The company's website states that its technicians and installers receive company and factory training throughout the year, reflecting an approach that combines field experience with continuing education. That training applies across the company's heating, cooling, and electrical work and is presented as part of its effort to maintain current industry knowledge and practices.

For Shane, 21 years with the company represent a substantial portion of Brandt's operating history. Brandt's states that the business has served its communities since 2003 and has more than 21 years in business. The company's service operation has developed alongside its broader range of heating, cooling, and electrical work, giving experienced members of the team a role in maintaining established practices as services continue across residential and commercial applications.

The company identifies customer care, transparency, integrity, honesty, professionalism, and quality workmanship among the principles guiding its operations. Its website also states that the team handles both routine maintenance and emergency needs and works on residential and commercial applications from start to finish. Those responsibilities require coordination between service personnel, installers, electrical professionals, and office staff.

The 21-year milestone provides a company-level recognition of sustained service within an organization that continues to rely on experienced personnel across multiple technical disciplines. Shane's current position as Service Manager reflects the progression from HVAC maintenance and repair expertise into a leadership role overseeing service operations and supporting standards across the department. Brandt's current team information continues to identify Shane as Service Manager across its heating and air conditioning service operations.
