Skin Artistry Clinic Introduces PDGF Treatment in Alamo for Targeted Skin Repair

October 28, 2026

Alamo, California - October 28, 2026 -
Skin Artistry Clinic has expanded its regenerative aesthetics offerings with Platelet-Derived Growth Factor (PDGF) therapy, a treatment that delivers a concentrated dose of one of the body's primary repair signals directly to the skin. The addition gives patients in the East Bay a new option for accelerating collagen production, wound healing, and tissue renewal under the care of a board-certified physician.

DGF therapy at Skin Artistry Clinic is designed to address post-procedure recovery, fine lines, uneven texture, and skin laxity. The treatment can be delivered as a topical serum, driven in through microneedling, or administered by injection, depending on each patient's individual treatment plan. Recovery benefits are often visible within days, while improvements in skin quality continue to build over a period of three to six weeks.

PDGF is a naturally occurring protein released by platelets when tissue is injured, functioning as one of the first signals the body sends to begin repair. It works by recruiting fibroblasts and stem cells to the treatment site and prompting them to produce new collagen, elastin, and blood vessels. While the growth factor is present in whole-blood treatments such as PRP and PRF, the PDGF approach relies on formulations that isolate and concentrate it for rapid, targeted signaling.

Each treatment at Skin Artistry Clinic in Alamo is performed by Dr. Faiqa Chaudhry, MD, a board-certified physician with more than a decade of experience in primary care, preventive medicine, and aesthetic medicine. The physician-led model means patients work directly with Dr. Chaudhry to determine whether PDGF is used on its own or paired with another procedure such as microneedling or laser treatment.

"PDGF gives patients a precise way to support the skin's own repair process," said Dr. Faiqa Chaudhry, MD, founder of Skin Artistry Clinic. "Because the growth factor can be directed exactly where renewal is needed, it works as a complement to other procedures or as a standalone series for patients seeking a lower-commitment regenerative option."

The therapy is suited to patients who want to accelerate results from another procedure, shorten healing time, or add a targeted collagen boost to an existing skincare routine. The therapy is not recommended for individuals with active skin infections at the treatment site, active cancer or a history of certain malignancies, bleeding or clotting disorders, or those who are pregnant or breastfeeding. A consultation confirms whether a patient's skin condition and goals are an appropriate match.

Injectable PDGF formulations are not currently approved by the United States Food and Drug Administration as a standalone cosmetic injectable, and the clinic reviews the specific formulation and regulatory status of any product used during each consultation. Patients considering the treatment can read our customer reviews and consult with the clinic to learn how the growth factor approach can be tailored to individual skin goals.
